

LEBBEUS MITCHELL

CHAPTER V BAIL FOR THE MARQUIS

Twenty minutes later a taxicab deposited Lola at the door of her villa in Beverly Hills. She heard voices and standing in the living room and turned her steps in that direction. "Say, honey," she heard the voice of the insurance salesman say "we ought to get going. We don't want to get caught here."

and said Hugo was on the phone. Lola brightened. "Oh, Hugo! He's probably free." She hurried to the phone. "Hello, you poor darling. Where are you? Come up here, right now." She stopped speaking in amazement as a torrent of mixed Italian and English splattered out of the receiver. "But you're all wrong, Hugo. I told you it was that Space Hanlon. Hugo don't talk like that. Oh, so you think I'm a common cheap little peasant. But her voice turned again to pleading: "But, Hugo, you've got to believe me! I lied so Brogan would send the money. Why you can't talk that way to me? Again her anger was overwhelmed in tenderness. "Hugo, dear listen. All right, it that's the way you feel about it, you big Neapolitan toad!" Lola slammed up the phone, her eyes blazing with anger. "Seem to be getting rid of a lot of people today," she muttered as she entered the hall. She stopped on the threshold. Standing there very humbly, twisting his hat in hand, was Space Hanlon. He touched her arm humbly. "I just came to say goodbye. You won't forget me, will you? Why you can't talk that way to me?" "Oh, I guess you can get another job all right," said Lola, suffering a twinge of conscience. "A lot of people seem to think you're clever!" "No, Lola. These courts fired from Monardi, if you put a tab on you!" "This business. But that's all right," she followed Lola moodily, looking at the reason. "But that what are you going to do?"

"You get out of here and keep out of my personal affairs, Space Hanlon!" cried Lola.

"Dear Mr. Gillette, Contract on no contract. I won't work another day until you give me my money, Space Hanlon, Lola Burns."

"You mean with me cooking and my favorite recipes. Sure—and walking in your garden you favorite looks, and advice to young girls. I just brought her over as my last official act." "Let official act," said Lola, decisively dragging him over to the telephone. "Well, see about that!" "Hey, Lola. No! What are you going to do?" "She shined a number. Mr. Gillette should have discussed this with me first. We all lose our temper some times. Hello, Lola Burns. I want Mr. Gillette." "I don't want you to do that, Lola. You're a big star. It will make you look foolish."

"I'll do what I— Hello, Irene? This is Lola Burns. Is Mr. Gillette? Well, when he comes back tell him not to pay any attention to that letter I sent him this morning. It was just a joke."

"Gosh, Lola," said Space. "I can't say anything just now. I'll go out and send in Mrs. Titcomb."

"Gee, Space. I don't mind about Hugo. You were right about him. I found out what he was."

"You did? What happened?" "I'd rather not talk about it. But it was having to call up that sweet lamb Jim Brogan in the middle of the night and—"

"Brogan?" scowled Space. "What's that Turk got to do with this?" "Well, he sent over bail—three thousand dollars!"

"Jim Brogan did that? Yeah, I can imagine he'd like to put you under a three grand obligation to him."

Lola began to get mad. "He did that out of pure friendship!" "He's about as pure as a prize ball!" Lola flared up at that. "You get out of here, and keep out of my personal affairs, Space Hanlon!" He beat a hasty retreat.

(To Be Continued.)

and said Hugo was on the phone. Lola brightened. "Oh, Hugo! He's probably free." She hurried to the phone. "Hello, you poor darling. Where are you? Come up here, right now." She stopped speaking in amazement as a torrent of mixed Italian and English splattered out of the receiver. "But you're all wrong, Hugo. I told you it was that Space Hanlon. Hugo don't talk like that. Oh, so you think I'm a common cheap little peasant. But her voice turned again to pleading: "But, Hugo, you've got to believe me! I lied so Brogan would send the money. Why you can't talk that way to me? Again her anger was overwhelmed in tenderness. "Hugo, dear listen. All right, it that's the way you feel about it, you big Neapolitan toad!" Lola slammed up the phone, her eyes blazing with anger. "Seem to be getting rid of a lot of people today," she muttered as she entered the hall. She stopped on the threshold. Standing there very humbly, twisting his hat in hand, was Space Hanlon. He touched her arm humbly. "I just came to say goodbye. You won't forget me, will you? Why you can't talk that way to me?" "Oh, I guess you can get another job all right," said Lola, suffering a twinge of conscience. "A lot of people seem to think you're clever!" "No, Lola. These courts fired from Monardi, if you put a tab on you!" "This business. But that's all right," she followed Lola moodily, looking at the reason. "But that what are you going to do?"

"You get out of here and keep out of my personal affairs, Space Hanlon!" cried Lola.

"Dear Mr. Gillette, Contract on no contract. I won't work another day until you give me my money, Space Hanlon, Lola Burns."

"You mean with me cooking and my favorite recipes. Sure—and walking in your garden you favorite looks, and advice to young girls. I just brought her over as my last official act." "Let official act," said Lola, decisively dragging him over to the telephone. "Well, see about that!" "Hey, Lola. No! What are you going to do?" "She shined a number. Mr. Gillette should have discussed this with me first. We all lose our temper some times. Hello, Lola Burns. I want Mr. Gillette." "I don't want you to do that, Lola. You're a big star. It will make you look foolish."

"I'll do what I— Hello, Irene? This is Lola Burns. Is Mr. Gillette? Well, when he comes back tell him not to pay any attention to that letter I sent him this morning. It was just a joke."

"Gosh, Lola," said Space. "I can't say anything just now. I'll go out and send in Mrs. Titcomb."

"Gee, Space. I don't mind about Hugo. You were right about him. I found out what he was."

"You did? What happened?" "I'd rather not talk about it. But it was having to call up that sweet lamb Jim Brogan in the middle of the night and—"

"Brogan?" scowled Space. "What's that Turk got to do with this?" "Well, he sent over bail—three thousand dollars!"

"Jim Brogan did that? Yeah, I can imagine he'd like to put you under a three grand obligation to him."

Lola began to get mad. "He did that out of pure friendship!" "He's about as pure as a prize ball!" Lola flared up at that. "You get out of here, and keep out of my personal affairs, Space Hanlon!" He beat a hasty retreat.

(To Be Continued.)

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for February 4

PUTTING GOD'S FEBRUARY FIRST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 6:1-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you. Matthew 6:33.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Teachings of God's Grace. JUNIOR TOPIC—Inheritance of Kingdom. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Serve One Master Only. YOUTH PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Put God First Things First.

Having set forth in the previous chapter the standards of the kingdom, Christ the King now exhibits the underlying principles which control the subjects of the kingdom.

I. As to Giving (vs. 1-4).

Doing alms makes men is not commended as that would contradict Matthew 23:23 for the King of them believe him to be some of them. To seek God's kingdom first is to seek God's grace first.

II. As to Praying (vs. 5-13).

The spirit of our prayers should be that of simple faith in the God who is our Father. He is our Father who is our Father who is our Father.

III. As to Fasting (vs. 16-18).

The fast is not for show, but for the heart. It is the heart that is the fast.

IV. As to Earthly Riches (vs. 19-24).

Whoever would inherit the kingdom of heaven must first be single-hearted. He must be single-hearted.

V. As to Faith in the Heavenly Father (vs. 25-34).

Do not be anxious about food and clothing. He who is without anxiety is without anxiety.

Friendship

No matter how prominent or how numerous the advocates of error may be, that is no reason why you should espouse it. Personal friendship is one thing, friendship for error is quite another thing.

God's Name

As Philias contrived his mechanism so that his memory could never be obliterated without the destruction of his work, so the great name of God is interwoven in the texture of all that he has made.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED.

Paul R. Launer, Waynesville and Lilian Robinson Canton. Ross Earley Cove Creek and Beale Sutton, Catalochoe. J. O. Holland and C. Mills Turner, Canton.

Osborne Fester, colored and Bebe Drake, colored, both of Waynesville. Herbert G. Hunter and Clara Bell Price, both of White Oak. Sherman Harris and Annie Rhoads, both of Hemphill.

Doctor: "I'm sorry, Mrs. Brown, but I have to tell you that your husband will never be able to work again." Mrs. Brown: "I'll go and tell 'im. I'll cheer him up."

Walker (in hot argument): The pedestrian was here first you have to admit that. Motorist: Yes, and so was the Indian but where is he now?"

Aunt (to home girl): Whatever is the matter, Tommy? Tommy: Tummy ache and they made me have it.

The Sunday school teacher asked the children to write down the names of their favorite poems. One little girl wrote down: "Willie Smith"

Abraham Lincoln married a Tad, but was once asked why his wife's name did not spell their name with Lincoln's. "Well," he answered, "I guess my wife's good enough for me."

NOTICE OF SALE

WHEREAS, W. F. Bell and his wife, Francis Annie Bell, on the 30th day of July, 1927, made, executed and delivered to W. T. Sharp, trustee, a deed of trust conveying the land therein and hereinafter described to secure the payment of the indebtedness therein recited, which said deed of trust is duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Haywood County in Book 18, at page 257; and

WHEREAS, the said W. T. Sharp, trustee as aforesaid, died on or about the 6th day of February, 1929, without having performed, fulfilled or executed the trusts received in said deed of trust; and

WHEREAS, the undersigned was, by an order duly entered by the clerk of the superior court of Haywood County in the proceeding entitled "Gurney P. Hood, Commissioner of Deeds, vs. Mrs. Francis Annie Bell, et al.," on the 22nd day of January, 1934 duly appointed to act as trustee, in the aforesaid deed of trust and to execute the trusts therein recited in the place and stead of the said W. T. Sharp, deceased; and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by the aforesaid deed of trust, whereby the power of sale therein contained has become operative and the holder of the said deed of trust has directed that the said deed of trust be foreclosed;

NOW THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that the power of sale contained in the aforesaid deed of trust will be exercised on the 15th day of February, 1934, at 10 o'clock a. m. at the Court House in Waynesville, North Carolina.

W. T. SHARP, Trustee.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED.

Paul R. Launer, Waynesville and Lilian Robinson Canton. Ross Earley Cove Creek and Beale Sutton, Catalochoe. J. O. Holland and C. Mills Turner, Canton.

Osborne Fester, colored and Bebe Drake, colored, both of Waynesville. Herbert G. Hunter and Clara Bell Price, both of White Oak. Sherman Harris and Annie Rhoads, both of Hemphill.

Doctor: "I'm sorry, Mrs. Brown, but I have to tell you that your husband will never be able to work again." Mrs. Brown: "I'll go and tell 'im. I'll cheer him up."

Walker (in hot argument): The pedestrian was here first you have to admit that. Motorist: Yes, and so was the Indian but where is he now?"

Aunt (to home girl): Whatever is the matter, Tommy? Tommy: Tummy ache and they made me have it.

The Sunday school teacher asked the children to write down the names of their favorite poems. One little girl wrote down: "Willie Smith"

Abraham Lincoln married a Tad, but was once asked why his wife's name did not spell their name with Lincoln's. "Well," he answered, "I guess my wife's good enough for me."

NOTICE OF SALE

WHEREAS, W. F. Bell and his wife, Francis Annie Bell, on the 30th day of July, 1927, made, executed and delivered to W. T. Sharp, trustee, a deed of trust conveying the land therein and hereinafter described to secure the payment of the indebtedness therein recited, which said deed of trust is duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Haywood County in Book 18, at page 257; and

WHEREAS, the said W. T. Sharp, trustee as aforesaid, died on or about the 6th day of February, 1929, without having performed, fulfilled or executed the trusts received in said deed of trust; and

WHEREAS, the undersigned was, by an order duly entered by the clerk of the superior court of Haywood County in the proceeding entitled "Gurney P. Hood, Commissioner of Deeds, vs. Mrs. Francis Annie Bell, et al.," on the 22nd day of January, 1934 duly appointed to act as trustee, in the aforesaid deed of trust and to execute the trusts therein recited in the place and stead of the said W. T. Sharp, deceased; and

WHEREAS, default has been made in the payment of the indebtedness secured by the aforesaid deed of trust, whereby the power of sale therein contained has become operative and the holder of the said deed of trust has directed that the said deed of trust be foreclosed;

NOW THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that the power of sale contained in the aforesaid deed of trust will be exercised on the 15th day of February, 1934, at 10 o'clock a. m. at the Court House in Waynesville, North Carolina.

W. T. SHARP, Trustee.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED.

Paul R. Launer, Waynesville and Lilian Robinson Canton. Ross Earley Cove Creek and Beale Sutton, Catalochoe. J. O. Holland and C. Mills Turner, Canton.

Osborne Fester, colored and Bebe Drake, colored, both of Waynesville. Herbert G. Hunter and Clara Bell Price, both of White Oak. Sherman Harris and Annie Rhoads, both of Hemphill.

Doctor: "I'm sorry, Mrs. Brown, but I have to tell you that your husband will never be able to work again." Mrs. Brown: "I'll go and tell 'im. I'll cheer him up."

Walker (in hot argument): The pedestrian was here first you have to admit that. Motorist: Yes, and so was the Indian but where is he now?"

Aunt (to home girl): Whatever is the matter, Tommy? Tommy: Tummy ache and they made me have it.

The Sunday school teacher asked the children to write down the names of their favorite poems. One little girl wrote down: "Willie Smith"

Abraham Lincoln married a Tad, but was once asked why his wife's name did not spell their name with Lincoln's. "Well," he answered, "I guess my wife's good enough for me."

NOTICE OF SALE

WHEREAS, W. F. Bell and his wife, Francis Annie Bell, on the 30th day of July, 1927, made, executed and delivered to W. T. Sharp, trustee, a deed of trust conveying the land therein and