Park-To-Park Road Delegation from N. C. Impresses Officials

North Carolina Delegation Asks That Road Come Via Balsams to Park

The state of North Carolina Tuesday made an impressive showing before the Regional Board of Public Works Administration in Baltimore in presenting a claim for the park-to-park scenic highway. Headed by Governor J. B. Ehringhaus, Senator Robert R. Reynolds, Senator Hugh W. Bailey, together with members of the North Carolina highway commission, of which Frank Miller of Waynesville is a member, the delegation signed their plea almost entirely upon the state's possession of more scenic scenery through the Blue Ridge from Low Gap at the Virginia line to Soco Gap in the Smoky Mountains National Park. Reuben B. Robinson of Canton was also present.

The commission heard on Monday the delegation from Virginia, who were divided as to where they wanted the highway. The delegation from North Carolina used an entirely different method in presenting their claims. Their information was systematic and thorough and in sharp contrast to that used in the Virginia hearing. The Tennessee delegation was heard Wednesday.

Glenn McClark, consulting landscape architect, said after the hearing that the scenic highway presentation was the most graphic and interesting he had ever seen. He was impressed. Although there is nothing definite, the commission advised the delegation that they would be inspected before any action was taken. The commission's action in the hearing said they would be inspected before any action was taken. The commission's action in the hearing said they would be inspected before any action was taken.

The plan as presented to the commission calls for the highway to Linville Gorge, Little Switzerland, Mount Mitchell, Mount Pisgah, the Balsams and on into the park by Soco Gap. The proposed highway would likely follow the old Balsam Gap to Soco Gap in this county.

The technical case for the state was presented by Mr. Jeffrey and R. G. Browning, location engineer, who stressed the fact that the North Carolina route follows the crest of the Blue Ridge and maintains a high altitude for its entire length, while the Tennessee route, which would leave the Blue Ridge at Grandfather Mountain, would necessarily have many dips into valleys between peaks.

The plan also was stressed that the Tennessee route would invite commercial traffic and would pass through industrial centers, while the North Carolina route would be purely a scenic route.

Governor Ehringhaus has been criticized in western North Carolina on the ground that he devoted his attention too much to eastern North Carolina, but he went to bat for western North Carolina, which under the Tennessee route would lose the highway through the sections of Linville Gorge, Little Switzerland, Mount Mitchell and the Balsam Mountains.

North Carolina's effort was by no means sectional. The state was united and one of the strongest arguments was made by Representative Doughton, whose district would be served by either route.

"A scenic highway without those mountains would be like a funeral without the corpse," declared Frank Bailey.

"You can't carry the scenery to the road; you must carry the road to the scenery," observed Mr. Doughton.

BAILEY'S ARGUMENT

Those two statements summarized the main argument of each speaker, but Senator Bailey added another argument.

"This is the one opportunity of a lifetime," said the Senator. "The United States is now spending its last billions and anyone who does not know it is a fool. The spending cannot continue at its present rate, and if North Carolina does not get this 200 foot highway now it will never get it."

Pointing out that the state pays more than 10 per cent of all the taxes levied that the federal government he declared that North Carolina is paying $80,000,000 of the public works money on the basis of population and $400,000,000 on the basis of actual tax collections and has received only $3,600,000 exclusive of the money spent for roads and the CWA.

"But I am not basing the State's claim on those things," asserted the Senator. "This road should be real scenic highway and should be located on that basis alone. If we do not have the superior scenery, do not give the road; but do not compromise the matter; it is not a matter for compromise. We see you to inspect our route for yourselves and we will abide your judgment."

There is already available $16,000,000 for the construction of a scenic highway between Shenandoah national park in Virginia and the Great Smoky Mountains national park, which lies partly in North Carolina and partly in Tennessee.

Did Groundhog See Shadow, Or Did The Snow Keep Him In?

It is an ancient belief that when the groundhog sees his shadow on February 2nd means six more weeks of winter is in for some more cold weather. Mr. Groundhog could have seen his shadow last Friday if he had come out of his hole, but whether the snow kept him back or not is not known.

Some who claim to know say that the snow kept the animal under the weather prophet from coming out and that we are in for spring weather instead of six more weeks of winter. Others who claim to know just as much about it say that the seven inches of snow on the ground had nothing to do with the predicting. So there.

Citizens Sunday School Class To Begin Here Sun.

J. R. Morgan To Teach Class Of Men In His Office Each Sunday, Beginning At 10 O'clock

Beginning Sunday morning at ten o'clock J. R. Morgan will teach the newly organized Citizens' Sunday School class, which will meet in the law office of Morgan Stamey and Ward, in the building just opposite the court house.

Mr. Morgan has been teaching the Men's Bible class at the First Baptist church, but the fact that there were so many men who were not affiliated with any church, and who said they were interested in attending a class of this kind without having to go to church, Mr. Morgan, after making a survey of the town, decided to begin the class.

Mr. Morgan said "This class is intended to reach men who are not attending Sunday School elsewhere. A cordial invitation is extended to all men to join in the class regardless of church affiliation.

The class will adjourn in time for the members to attend any church service that they desire, it was said.

One of the features of the class will be the informality. A number of men who work on Sundays will attend in their working clothes, and those who do not feel that their dress is sufficient for church attendance will find a cordial welcome at the Citizens Sunday School class every Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

The reason for the discussion Sunday morning will be "Time Writings." An article on this subject will be found elsewhere in this paper.

R. L. Justice Gets Average Of 18 Cts. For Tobacco Crop

"Don't Crowd Tobacco, Give It Plenty Of Room," Is Advice Given By Local Farmer

R. L. Justice, of Waynesville, route three showed The Mountaineer receipts Tuesday for $208.32 for the 1146 pounds of tobacco that he sold Monday on the Asheville market.

This is an average of little more than 18 cents a pound.

Mr. Justice received as high as 25 cents a pound for some of his load, and the minimum of five cents through his average down. He quoted a buyer at the Banner Warehouse as saying that, "This is the finest tobacco I've seen." R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company's representative bought the entire load.

The crop was grown on land which for 19 years, with the exception of three, had been planted in corn.

When asked to what he attributed such fine tobacco, Mr. Justice replied: "Careful handling and giving it plenty of room in the barn has always paid me," was the reply. "I use the loft of my barn and allow plenty of room between the tobacco, I never crowd."

The crop was grown by Van Ashe, under the supervision of Mr. Justice. It is said that Mr. Ashe has received more money for his crop than any man in his community.

Last week an article was carried about Howell McCracken, Waynesville, receiving an average of over 14 cents for his crop. Is there anyone who can beat the record set by Mr. Justice?

The general belief is that the formal appointment will be made within the next few days.

Only Two Routes From Waynesville After March First

Routes One, Two And Three Will Be Consolidated, W. A. Grabl and T. L. Bramlet Retiring

Effective March first, Waynesville will have only two rural mail routes, instead of three as at present. W. A. Grabl and T. L. Bramlett, veteran mail carriers will retire on that date and a consolidation of the routes will be made with Wayne Roper, press carrier on Clyde, to be the being transferred to the Waynesville route and W. M. Murrell, presently carrying three routes over county roads.

The two routes will cover a distance of about 50 miles each, it was learned.

The two retiring carriers entered the mail service on December 1, 1904, and are being treated with a pension effective March first.

Because of incomplete information from Washington, and, unfortunately, as to the pension changes that will be made, were not available at the post office this week. The exact territory as to the two routes will be announced later.

Last year, when the first mail route was consolidated with Clyde, route one and Waynesville route three were left. As a result, retired, W. A. Grabl and T. L. Bramlett from Waynesville, and one consolidated route, and both.

Fairly Certain That Park Will Be Open By The First Of July

Washington Newspaperman Sees Possibility Of Great Smoky Park Being In Operation By July

"It now seems fairly certain that the Great Smoky Mountains National Park will be in full fledged operation as a national park by July 1, thus ending seven years of effort which began with the appropriation of two million dollars by the State of North Carolina in 1927, together with similar action by the State of Tennessee and the raising of one million dollars by private subscriptions in the two states, the entire sum being matched by a five million gift from Laura Spellman Rockefeller Foundation," writes Robert E. Williams for the Raleigh News and Observer from that paper's bureau in Washington.

The State of North Carolina recently abandoned its appeal from a decision in Buncombe county superior court awarding $1,057,000 for the 32,000 acre Ravenscroft lumber tract and there also remains to be paid $300,000 for the Suncrest Lumber Company tract of the same size. Funds are available to pay for these tracts, which together with small tracts yet to be acquired in Tennessee will give the 428,000 acres required as a minimum for the national park.

A delegation from North Carolina was here today, composed of W. W. Neal, chairman of the park commission; T. W. Raoul, a member; Harry Saunders, secretary and J. Wallace Winborne and A. Hall Johnston, attorneys for the commission.

Together with Representative Zebulon Weaver they conferred with officials of the interior department. The only hitch now in the way is passage of a bill introduced by Mr. Weaver, which would clarify the right to use funds already allotted for that purpose for the national park.

Congress Passed A Bill For Cattlemen

Appropriation of $200,000,000 Provided. Low Producing Cattle Would Be Purchased

Haywood County farmers will be interested in knowing that Congress on Monday passed a bill which made cattle a basic commodity and provided an appropriation of $200,000,000 with an agreement that not more than 60 percent of that amount shall be expended for either beef or dairy cattle.

It is understood that a portion of the money will be used to carry out the plan presented to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration by Representative Hancock and which originated with Robert M. Cox, of Forsyth. Under the plan the government will through the surplus corporation buy up low producing cattle and distribute them through the relief organization to needy farmers, thus putting the dairy cattle where they are needed and keeping them off the beef cattle market. More cattle than before are being raised in eastern North Carolina and the industry has always been important in the mountain counties.

Plans Underway To Begin Boy Scout Movement Soon

Three Civic Clubs To Sponsor Troops In This Community Under District Organization

Present plans are that work will begin within the next few weeks with the organizing of several Boy Scout troops in this community under the general supervision of a district scout committee together with the National Boy Scout Organization which is represented in this section by A. W. Allen, of Asheville.

The American Legion and Rotary Club have formerly accepted the proposition and together with the Booster Club of Hazelwood, who are to vote on the matter tonight, it is expected that the organization will get underway at an early date.

It is the plan of the district committee to begin with about four troops, with 22 boys to each troop for the present and then as the troops get to where they are functioning properly other troops will be organized.

By joining in with the national and district group, the local scouts would have the use of the council camp in Pisgah Forest and the leaders here would be given a special training course before taking over a group of the boys.

President Roosevelt will speak over the radio Saturday at noon to the Boy Scouts of the nation.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hayes and son, Leon, left Friday to spend a month visiting in various cities in Florida.
