Bootleggers Plan To Pay Taxes And Continue Operation

United States May Help State Enforce Its Liquor Law Later, But Not At Present.

Raleigh, N.C., Feb. 7.—Bootleggers and big dealers may pay the Federal tax of $2 a gallon on whiskey liquor, but they may have on hand and eliminate the possibility of long indictment by Federal officials, some of the larger illicit liquor dealers in the state are paying the tax in order to be able to deal with the government, it was learned here today. A dealer of Internal Revenue Charles H. Robertson said that they were accepting the tax from anyone who wanted to pay it and giving them receipts, without asking any question, since as far as the government is concerned there is no prohibition law in North Carolina. Later on, however, he believes that the federal government will give the state some assistance in enforcing its prohibition law.

"But right now, the only thing the government is interested in is collecting the tax of $2 a gallon on liquor and alcohol, regardless of who may possess it or of who made it," Robertson said. Some of the bootleggers, of course, are still trying to get by without paying the government tax of $2 a gallon, since the tax naturally forces them to increase their prices. But some of the larger and more extensive liquor dealers are quoted as saying that they are paying the government tax as protection from federal interference and taking their chances with state and county officers. Several bootleg liquor dealers in this section are understood to be paying the tax and absorbing half of it themselves and increasing their prices to their customers only $1 a gallon. Thus bootleg liquor that formerly sold for $3 a gallon is now selling for $4 a gallon, and so forth.

At the present time no stamp is required to be affixed to the containers to show that the tax has been paid. But later on, it is understood, all containers will have to carry a stamp showing the federal tax has been paid.

The congregation at Long Chapel celebrated "Judilee" last Sunday, Feb. 4, because the church benevolence and Children's Home Assessment have been paid in full for the year 1933.

The pastor, the Rev. E. O. Dryman, preached a very living sermon from the old hymn using as his text 1 John 2:19. His theme was "Christ the true foundation," emphasizing the teaching of Jesus especially the "Great Commandment."

The Woman's Missionary Society held the February meeting at the parsonage Feb. 6. A very interesting and inspirational program was given. Miss Minnie Willis, made a talk on "The strides that were made in the 1st year." They were the building of the parsonage and how the women had helped. It might be interesting to others to know how the women helped. The parsonage was practically built by "free" labor and the women began by meeting in the basement of the church and cooking hot dinners for the men working on the parsonage. They caught a vision of quitting for pay. First some good women from Waynesville furnished the quilts and later they came from other sections of the state and from several other states.

Over $10,000 was realized this way and applied on material and furnishing for the parsonage. The lower floor is completed and very comfortable and attractive, but the rooms above are unfinished. At the February meeting Mrs. Carl Medford was elected chairman of a ways and means committee to raise fund to finish one room upstairs before Easter. $30.00 was pledged before the meeting adjourned with part of it paid. We hope to get funds sufficient within the next few days.

At the February meeting Miss Willis also gave some very interesting missionary news. Miss Elizabeth Hoops gave, in her interesting way, a paper, "The world moves for-

Ship Hits Whale

The Dollar liner President Taft bound from San Francisco to New York struck a giant whale 1,927 miles northwest of Boston.

"The impact was terrific," the ship's wireless operator messaged. "I thought we'd hit a rock. The boat trembled violently and the passengers all ran out on deck."

He said the whale appeared stunned after the shock and remained on the surface, forcing the President Taft to reverse and detour around it.
