A well-known attorney was always lecturing his office boy, whether he needed it or not. One day he chanced to hear the following conversation between the boy and the one employed next door:

"How much does your chief pay you?" asked the latter.

"I get $1,500 a year. Five dollars a week in cash and the rest in legal advice."

Little Tommy was in a rebellious mood. "I don't want my face washed, Granny," he pouted impatiently.

"Nonsense," said Granny, rather severely. "Why, I've washed my face three times a day ever since I was a little girl."

"Yes," said Tommy, "and it shrunk so bad that now it wants to be ironed out."

Local Boy Wins A Nation-Wide Prize

Albert Edward New, of Waynesville, a senior student in the school of engineering of the University of North Carolina, won fourth prize in the annual nation-wide student problem contest conducted by the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. The announcement came from Prof. A. McLaren White, chairman of the committee on student chapters at the New York convention of the Institute this week.

Mr. New was formally awarded the prize a presentation copy of a diploma in chemical engineering, last Tuesday in New York.

According to Professor White, the winning of a prize in the engineering problem contest is an achievement of a very high order. The problem selected is one of much greater difficulty than usually encountered in undergraduate college work, and is judged not only on accuracy of calculation and assumptions, but on neatness and clarity of presentation as well. Mr. New's solution was one of the few which yielded the correct numerical answer, and his results were presented in the form of a clear and forceful report.
