Second Primary Called In Four County Races

Race For Sheriff, Representative, Chairman Of Board, and Constable To Be Voted On Again

Haywood county is preparing for the primary, which will be held on Saturday, June 29th.

Dealing with the board of elections the second races are:

For sheriff Arch G. Russell who was second high man against J. C. Crawford is running against J. Alley, there being a difference of 27 votes between the two candidates in the primary.

B. Ingram is out against W. Hyatt for chairman of the board of commissioners.

B. Ingram has called for a primary against George Liddle high man before.

Observers of political affairs in the county said that indications are the coming election will be the most fought contest in the county. With the race narrowed down to two candidates in each, there will be much speculation and campaign on the part of the candidates as well as friends of the candidates.

From the time the official vote was announced last Wednesday there has been considerable talk of a second primary, but it was not until late Monday afternoon that any candidate took a formal step towards calling it. All the candidates filing for the second primary filed with the board of elections within a short time of each other.

There are three races that were not contested: Board of Commissioners, Judge, and Board of Education.

Plans Completed By W. C. Allen To Publish History

The Annals of Haywood County, a new history, will be published in the near future according to an understanding reached at a meeting of the board of directors on Saturday, June 9. It is planned for the manuscript to be placed in the hands of the printer by September 1 and the book to come from the press by the middle of December.

Cooperating with the author, W. C. Allen, in the publication of the work are W. T. Lee, Waynesville; T. A. Clark, Canton; D. L. L. Smathers, Clyde; W. J. Hannah, Waynesville; D. Reeves Noland, Crabtree; Mrs. F. Lodtz, Gwyn, Waynesville; and J. R. Boyd, Waynesville, acting as a board of directors with J. R. Boyd as treasurer.

At the meeting held Saturday affairs in the office of the Waynesville Chamber of Commerce, the following plan of financing the project was agreed upon: Advance orders will be taken, the purchaser making a deposit of $1.00 at the time of signing the order with the treasurer, J. R. Boyd, president of the First National Bank, Waynesville, which amount will be held in trust to the credit of the purchaser until the book is published and delivered at which time the balance of the price is paid not to exceed $2.00 in all.

Orders are now being solicited. The author, W. C. Allen, has been authorized to receive orders and receipt for the same, and as soon as is convenient and expedient other canvassers will be put into the field.

Mr. Allen began the writing of the book in 1930 and planned to have had it out before this time, but for financial reasons the time had not seemed quite favorable until now.

The publication will be in one volume in two parts. Part I is historical, embracing the full history of the county from the time of the first settlement until 1934. Part II is genealogical and contains the history of more than sixty of the old families of the county. The two parts make a book of more than five hundred pages.

This is the first book ever written wholly about Haywood county. It contains information about Haywood county and Haywood county people that can be gotten nowhere else. The number of copies for the first and perhaps, the only edition will be limited and guided by the number of advance orders obtained. It will be necessary for those who wish a copy, or copies, of the book to make arrangement at soon as possible to secure a copy. Orders may be left either with Mrs. T. Lenoir Gwyn, Chamber of Commerce, Waynesville; or J. R. Boyd, First National Bank, Waynesville. Mr. Allen, the author, will make a canvass of a portion of the county and get as many orders as possible within the next few weeks.

Those who are interested in getting a copy among the first that are printed should see either Mr. Allen, Mrs. T. Lenoir Gwyn, or J. R. Boyd. Final arrangements are being made to get the book out in a reasonable time.
