"Er Sump'm"

In Dialect

And Rime

By UNCLE ABE

Dear Readers of the Mountaineer: I do wish I could say that the Editor spoke about last week's "Caus I'd a run down that party girl kist me once--shore did I--good. I'd make 6' 7" down for another kiss (or buss) like that, old as I am.

Back in my young days neerly every body sez "buss--not kias; an' how a buss iz what they hawl skool children in--my how things hav changed! But the sound of a kiss hein pulled off now-a-days iz sumwhat like a buss uster sound difference iz we ust t' have to be quick about those busses an' not let em pop so lowd. Then they coodnt be neer so long drawn out--coodnt be 'cuss they had t' be done in a split sekund while Dad er Maw's back wuz turned.

They shore wuz juicy busses the back in them days--had to almost wade thro ambeer to git to 'em. But they hav to go thro kold cream, rooge, talkum powders an' add infinnytum these days--'buot as bad.

Besides gurl) wuz not neer so tame back then.

Saw Manson Medford in town tuther day--hadnt bin here for 6 mos. before. When sumpdy ast him why he had staid away sich a long time he sez he: "Coodnt git by my torn mill." "Why?" sumpdy ast. "Wuznt the plain road befor ye?" Then Manson set out to explain how that ev'ry time he started past his mill it started up to runnin', just like the Dickens, an' he'd haf to hurry an' shet it off--no corn in it ye see. Sed he coodnt git away from that mill at'all. He reckund it wuz all becaws of the grate Effeckshun him an' hiz mill had for each other.

Manson sed that the wurst fault he had to find wuz hiz mill wuz, it had the jim-Tock nook; 'lowd if he coodnt git that nook out of it he woud maybe trade it off for a good houn' dawg, er sump'n.

Ye know, Mr. Editor, az a J. P., Uncle Abe haz to hand down important Deesisshun in court; wuz called on to hand one down tuther day in which a car an' a cow perticipated. Cow wuz runnin' down the street an' car up when they klashid. 'Cordin' to the evideance the cow wuz runnin' with her hed down at an angle of 45 degrees an' lookin' back over her shoulder. "Now," sed I, "if sed cow wuz runnin' down sed street like that when she run into sed car, I hold that sed cow wuz in fault an' will haf to pay for it--that iz if she's worth it at the present price of cows." ('Caus accordin' to the evideance the car wuz masht up but the cow wuznt hurt.)

The cow's lawyer argued that hiz klient coodnt not hav run like that hed down, noze neerly to the ground an' lookin' back over her shoulder at the same time. "Now looky here," sed the court (that's me) "Ye dont no cows like I do."

My Deesisshun seemed to giv general satisfackshun.

Lee Trantham, Clyde, wuz the furst to request a copy of Uncle Abe's Dickshunary. Seem' you're the furst, Lee, I'm goin' to send ye one with my compliments. Yes, I lern't to spell under Professor Smith.

Wm. Medford an' Mrs. Ruth Kelly ast me why I wuz sich a long time takin' up my last profeshun. A newspaper yoonerist an' poet. Well, it wuz like this: Back then when this here erge, er sump'n comment anawin' on me the code sed: "16 hrs. work for Dad in Summer time an' 12 in wintertime, one shift only, an' 6 days a week. No vacashun an' no time off, 'cept 2 hrs. Sat. aftershun in Summer at the swimmin' hole.

Yest Sur, it wuz mity hard fer a young chap to brake ranks back in them days--if he'd a wanted to--thar wuz no place to go 'cept to a saw mill or foller a tobaker wagon off to Asheville. Sumtimes--if we workt rate good--our parints let us go to a chicken fight or a "party" for a change.

I've set out brite tobaker plants, fokes, until I darsent straiten up quick, fer my back wood brake, so I'd rub it awhile then ceze up strait. That wuz durin' McKinley's time, Cleveland's last Ministrashun an' back into Harrison.

Well, the Code wuz about the same fer me on up until Teddy's full term, when I reacht my majority, er sump'n (any way I had shaved the fuzz off my face severl times) an' went into bizness fer myself.

The only concluzyun I can reach, Mr. Editor, is that I wuz born 'bout

30 yrs. too soon, but I coodnt prevent it.

Well, friends, Uncle Abe made sich a good Reckord last week the Editor let me smoke another seggar from the frazzle ends of the elevator rope--that's all I got. An' the Editor, he gits rite out on the front page of the Mountaineer an' toots my horn--'didnt we see him last week a tootin'. Well, that wuz my horn he had.

Yopes trooly, UNKLE ABE.

THE MIND AS A FACTOR IN DISEASE

We have shown that indigestion, constipation, and various diseases are brought on by the wrong outlook on life. Hysteria is a disease of protean manifestations. Imagination and fear are the principal causes of all of them. The nervous patient can simulate almost every known disease. Even skin eruptions. Many fits or convulsions are of purely hysterical origin. Self control can often prevent these attacks.

A patient with diabetes who worries or is fearful or grief-stricken, is found to contain more sugar in the urine than when he is calm and contented. His agitation and discontent so affect the pancreas that it is unable to dispose of the carbohydrate in the body, consequently the blood sugar increases until it overflows into the urine and may reach the danger point.

Happiness and content invigorate the nervous system. Fear, anger, worry and discontent actually paralyze the nervous functions. The writer has known patients when under the influence of fear to cease excreting the poison normally found in the urine, and excrete nothing but water, while held in the grip of fear.

There are many people who are languishing upon sick beds today who could get well if they would only make up their minds to do so. They went to bed because they were really ill at the time. They remained in bed until they had formed the habit. Gradually they became possessed of the idea that they would never get well, and then proceeded all unconsciously to act upon it. They had thoughts of helplessness and disease in their subconscious minds and will remain invalids unless shaken out of it by some unusual happenings or powerful emotions.

An old lady had been confined to her several years with paralysis. She had recovered from the effects of the original illness that had sent her to bed, but she could not be persuaded to help herself in any way.

One day she was left in the house alone when she saw that her room had caught on fire. She rang her bell vigorously, but heard no approaching footsteps. She yelled loudly and lustily but was only mocked by echoes. With the determination born of desperation her limbs were galvanized into action and she not only got out of bed, but escaped alone from the burning building. Another example of the influence of mind over matter.
