

Senator Reynolds Praises American Army In Address

North Carolina Senator Said Army Was Guardian Of Peace, Liberty And Freedom Of Thought.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—(Special to The Mountaineer.)—The American Army was lauded as the "Guardian of peace, liberty, and freedom of thought in a world rocked with chaos" in an address here Saturday by United States Senator Robert K. Reynolds, of North Carolina.

The address was the climax of the annual nation-wide Army Day celebration held under the auspices of associated patriotic groups.

Senator Reynolds who is a member of the Senate Military Affairs committee and an acknowledged expert on legislation, made a plea for united legislative support of national defense "As the greatest deterrent of another disastrous war."

The ceremonies which were broadcast over a coast-to-coast radio network were held in Soldiers and Sailors Memorial Hall under the sponsorship of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, The National Guard and Officers Reserve Corps.

In commenting on the need for adequate national defense on land, sea and in the air, Senator Reynolds speaking on "Peace Insurance" made specific recommendations for direct government subsidy to distressed ship-owners and to commercial aviation.

"An adequate and well-manned merchant marine is the second line of defense for our Navy and commercial aviation is the second line of defense for our fighting forces of the air," the North Carolina senator said.

Discussing the present political tension in Europe, Senator Reynolds said that while there was but one Sarajevo in 1914 "today smoke curls ominously up from a dozen Sarajevos of the Old World and all lovers of peace fear that any day some ruthless act or some inflammatory incident may lead to another disastrous war."

"We must stay out of Europe," Senator Reynolds said, "We want to live in peace and amity with all the nations of the world. But to achieve this goal we must have an adequate national defense. The Army, to which we pay homage today, is an integral part of that great system of national peace insurance."

"With all this trouble in the Old World, with all this upheaval about us, America remains the last stronghold wherein freedom of thought, of expression, of speech, of worship and of occupation are inviolate. Too often we fail to appreciate the blessings of liberty and freedom until they are imperilled or are completely lost. It is to the credit of the Army that its eternal vigilance has done much to enable us to continue to enjoy the blessings of freedom for which our forebears struggled."

Striking out boldly at critics of the recently enacted congressional action increasing the Army, Senator Reynolds declared, "The United States in comparison with other na-

Workmen are swarming around the old Gordon and Maple Lodge, and it seems that the Waynesville hotel is to get a facial too. The Massies have built one of the loveliest funeral homes to be found in this section and Jim Long is building a club house that he can live in himself. What became of that depression anyway?

And this is dedicated to the Rambler's friends of the legal profession: A city slicker had been bested by a farmer in a magistrate's court. The slicker was upset, the farmer was complacent:

"I'll see you in the superior court," said the slicker.
 "I'll be thar," said the farmer.
 "I'll see you in the supreme court," said the slicker.
 "I'll be thar," said the farmer.
 "D— you," howled the slicker.
 "I'll see you in hell!"
 "My lawyer'll be thar," said the farmer.

The fishing bug is doing a bit of nibbling these days. Several of the boys around town who like to wade in wet boots all day and then come in and tell how big he was—the one that got away, I mean—are sitting around with that dreamy, far away look in their eyes. Patience, fellows, it won't be long now.

One guy has his heart set on catching a particular trout, the one that swallowed a loaf of bread accidentally dropped in the water the last day of the past season.

In the meantime, go chase a cop! Try Smart.

"While Fascism, Nazism and Communism subdue a growing number of people in the Old World, despotism and dictatorship tightens its grip. But in America we want no 'isms' except Americanism and we know that the Army will be among the first to maintain Americanism on our shores," the Senator said in conclusion.

Obituary

CHARLES EDWIN RAY

Whereas, Since the former meeting of the Board of Directors of the First National Bank, Waynesville, N. C., Mr. Charles Edwin Ray, one of the Directors having died, it is

Resolved; That the remaining members of the Board do sincerely mourn the loss of his wise and valuable counsel in the Directorate. His interest and cooperation in the organization and management of the bank was so active, as well as cordial, that his associates desire to express their high appreciation of him as a man and co-worker. And be it further

Resolved; That this tribute to his memory be recorded as part of the proceedings of the meeting of the Directors held on this March 28th, 1935 and that a copy be furnished his family.

J. H. WAY,
 Secretary to the Board.

JERE DAVIS

We the members of the Champion Band, wish to express our deepest sympathy to the family of our faithful member, Jere Davis, who departed this life March 28, 1935.

He threw himself into the work of the band without reserve and greatly endeared himself to all the members. He proved himself diligent in building up the band and its progress was one goal of his life. His life and labor have been so commendable that we shall miss him and his fellowship.

The members of the Champion Band wish to pay tender tribute to the memory of our member; therefore be it resolved:

First, That we should submit to God's will without misgiving;
 Second, That we strive to emulate
