A CLEAN HOUSE SELDOM BURNS

The record of fire losses in various parts of the country presents an interesting and significant lesson in just why keeping buildings clear of trash and fire-encouraging traps is really an investment.

America is learning this lesson, as these figures show.

They have been compiled by the National Fire Protection Association:

| FIRE LOSSES | |
|-------------|------------------|
| 1926 | $561,980,751.00 |
| 1927 | 472,933,969.00 |
