Seeks To Avoid Special Session

RALEIGH-Governor Ehringhaus, as was generally believed, is seeking to avoid a special session of the General Assembly.

This is revealed in a letter written to the North Carolina Senators and Representatives in Congress, with enclosure of the enabling act passed by the General Assembly on its closing day which gives the Governor and council of state authority to set up a plan for unemployment insurance in any of the State departments.

Governor Ehringhaus asks the national legislators to watch legislattion in Congress with a view of en-actments which will not involve appropriations and not require a special session of the N. C. General Assembly to pass acts to conform to the national legislation. This national legislation on unemployment insurance was expected earlier, before the N. C. assembly adjourned but was not reached, and the last-day enabling act was passed with the hope that it would be sufficient to meet the federal requirements.
