

Dry Storage Keeps Seed Corn Fertile

Seed corn should be stored in a dry, well ventilated place over the winter if it is to produce a good yield of high quality corn the following season.

Carelessly stored seed may so deteriorate during the winter that it cannot produce a good stand of corn. The ears of seed corn should not be thrown together in a pile, but should be stored in such a manner that the air can circulate freely about each ear.

Given a chance to dry out thoroughly before cold weather, the seed will be able to withstand heavy freezes without injury.

A satisfactory hanger can be made with woven wire and a couple of two-by-four uprights. The meshes of the wire should be just large enough to permit the ears to pass through easily.

The uprights should be erected a convenient distance apart, with the broad edge set at right angles to the drawn between the two posts.

Two-Minute Sermon

By Thomas Hastwell

AN EXACTING MASTER: There is a vast difference in the conduct of business today and forty or fifty years ago. Fifty years ago competition was not so keen. Margins were wider and most any one with ordinary business judgment and a little money could conduct a business and make money. But today the situation is different. Competition is keener, margins are closer, and more careful merchandising is necessary. Most businesses today conducted as they have been conducted fifty and even less years ago would soon be closed. The same thing is true of the young man or young woman of today who expects to enter the battle of life and make a place in the world. The young man or the young woman who yields to the things that tear down a finely organized system, undermines it with liquor, late hours, and dissipation is going to find himself unequal to the task of competing with others of their fellows who choose to keep these things out of their lives. As competition has become more keen in business so has the struggle for existence, for recognition and advancement and reward in every line become more keen. The economic law is a hard, ruthless, exacting, but just, taskmaster, by which every young man and every young woman is tried and tested and judged.

Lady Took Cardui When Weak, Nervous

"I can't say enough for Cardui if I talked all day," enthusiastically writes Mrs. L. H. Caldwell, of Statesville, N. C. "I have used Cardui at intervals for twenty-five years," she adds. "My trouble in the beginning was weakness and nervousness. I read of Cardui in a newspaper and decided right then to try it. It seemed before I had taken half a bottle of Cardui I was stronger and was soon up and around."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Obituary

REV. J. F. MATNEY

Hall of Waynesville Council No. 373 Jr. O. U. A. M.

Be it resolved by Waynesville Council No. 373 Jr. O. U. A. M., as follows: First: That in the death of our brother, the Reverend J. Finley Matney, this Council has lost a loyal member who thoroughly believed in and practiced the three cardinal principles of this great American brotherhood, Virtue, Liberty and Patriotism.

Second: That North Carolina has lost an upright, patriotic citizen and the Christian ministry an honored and faithful representative; that his family has been deprived the services, advice and support of a kind and devoted husband and father.

Third: That we pause to pay tribute to his virtues and to his memory and to extend our sincere sympathy to his family and relatives.

We, as members of this order, which he dearly loved, request that these resolutions be spread upon our records as a perpetual memorial of our love and tribute to him and that a copy of the same be furnished to the family of the deceased and a copy given to the local press for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
W. T. MEHAFFEY,
F. A. BURGIN,
T. L. GREEN,
Committee.

Owner Of Detroit Tigers Passes With Heart Disease

If the Detroit Tigers fail to repeat in capturing a world's championship next year, Frank J. Navin will be spared the sorrow. The owner of the Detroit club, American baseball team, died unexpectedly of heart disease when he leaped from his horse while riding with Mrs. Navin.

-TIMELY- Farm Questions and Answers

Question: How much butterfat should each cow in a farm dairy herd produce?

Answer: A herd that averages less than 250 pounds of fat will make little, if any, profit. A 300-pound average should be the goal of every herd owner and this production can be had by the use of good, high production bred bulls and the raising of all heifer calves from the best cows. This production, however, will not be profitable unless all, or a greater part of the feed, is produced on the farm. Two tons of good crumby hay and two acres of pasture should be provided for a year's feeding for each cow in the herd in addition to the necessary grains.

Question: What causes double-yolked eggs and does the delivery of these eggs have any effect upon the birds?

Answer: Double-yolked eggs are caused by speeded ovulation and is quite common during early production and during the season of high production. The two yolks ripen about the same time and are delivered into the ovarian pocket and are then incorporated into one egg. Apparently there is no injury to the birds delivering such eggs and the formation will cease when production drops off.

Italy Paying Dear For African Land

Unofficial reports are that Italy has already spent over $25,000,000 on the war with Ethiopia, and has taken over 25,000 square miles of territory, which has cost approximately $10,000,000 per square mile. A check-up showed that some 75 Italians had been wounded in the conflict, and 35 killed.

Mr. Alton Kirkpatrick, of Shelby, spent the week-end with Mrs. Kirkpatrick, who is spending sometime with her mother, Mrs. James M. Mock.
