G-Men Captured Campbell Here

G-men rounded up the last of the notorious Karpis-Barker gang of kidnapers and bank robbers when they staged an early morning raid on a Toledo, O., hideout, above, and captured Harry Campbell and Sam Cokar. Mrs. Genevieve Fosnaught, inset, resident in the apartment across the hall from Campbell's hideout, was only witness to the raid.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD—Tennyson wrote "The Charge of the Light Brigade" on one page, but the movie script for the story will be 150 pages in length. I am assured by Director Michael Curtiz that it is one of the most remarkable studio writing jobs he has ever seen.

Michael Curtiz

The credit going to Howland Leigh and Michel Jacoby. Curtiz, or "Mike" as he is known to his friends, will shoot three battle scenes for the film, the final action at Balacava destined to last about eight minutes on the screen. Another record, there will be only about nine interior sets for the picture, all these very simple.

Battles will be no new thing to Curtiz, who, as an Austrian cavalry officer, fought on all three fronts during the World war and went through three revolutions after that. In addition, he was the champion light heavyweight strong man of Europe.

It gives a laugh to see how Hollywood has been marrying off Joan Blondell and Dick Powell without consulting the principals. I met Joan at Warners and asked her how about it.

"Listen," she said, "my divorce isn't final until August, and I assure you, sir, I ain't no bigamist." Which probably won't give you as big a kick as it did a table of visitors sitting nearby in the Green room.

Contrary to reports, the deal for another picture with the quintuplets is not closed. Darryl Zanuck would like to get them for two more films to be made at intervals of a year and two years from "The Country Doctor". He figures that, by next winter, the quintts will be talking a lot and that the public will pay money to hear them. You'd think there might be difficulty in writing a second story, but he already has the idea for one.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Dorothy Barnes, Beverly Hills; Mitchell Leisen says you are welcome to his recipe for sauerkraut cooked in champagne. For 40 people, he took four cans of kraut, removed most of the liquid and added a quart of boiling water. Then he added one grated onion, boiled the mixture about three quarters of an hour, grated one large potato into the kraut and boiled it for another half hour. Then he added a cup of grease taken from spareribs while they were baking and, half an hour before serving, added a pint of champagne. The thing to remember, he said, is not to allow the kraut to cook after that, because it spoils the flavor. Just keep it warm until served.

La Dietrich is spending hours on the "Mob Rule" set at M. G. M., watching her friend, Fritz Lang, put the actors through their paces. She sits in a chair beside Lang, sometimes until the company quits work for the day.

Bob Burns, of "bazooka" fame, told me the funniest story of the day. His uncle lives with him and the other morning, Bob relates, he found uncle sitting in a chair and gazing fixedly at the family goldfish bowl. A half hour later, Bob returned and uncle was still at it.

"What's the idea?" asked Bob. Without turning his head, the relative snapped: "No goldfish ain't going to stare me down."

Mary Carlisle is back from Europe and a much-smitten young Englishman will follow her soon. . . . I asked Mary about the James Blakeley rumors and she said: "It's strictly friendship, believe me".

Mary Carlisle

Among the more surprising experiences is to hear Nick the Greek recite Indian love lyrics by the dozen. . . . John Hewlett, who managed the tour of Colleen Moore's doll house, has another money-maker in a traveling act of animals that have worked in pictures. He has 10 months of bookings already. . . . Attention, Hollywood! Ann Sothern is spending three hours a day making television tests in New York. . . . And Fred Keating's feminine stooge in his current act is Hazel Wright, the former wife of Michio Ito, the Japanese dancer.

Where Animals Change Color

In the Far North are many animals which take on the color of their environment as a protective measure, says The Blue Magazine. And so the polar bear, protected from observation by white fur, erases after the seal and fastens his teeth in their nostrils, thereby preventing them from returning to the water. And in the same way the white polar fox sneaks about in the desert of ice and snow. And with the same white coloring, the white hare escapes the glances of its enemies in the polar regions. The snow owl, too, has taken on the color of its surroundings.

It Is Painting Time-Buy Kurfees

Did You Know?

THAT—labor is the big cost of a paint job?

That—on the average job the labor cost is from two to three times the cost of the paint?

That—it costs as much to apply a gallon of cheap paint as it does to apply a gallon of good paint?

That—cheap paints are made of cheap, low-grade pigments, low-grade liquids, and that many contain water and plenty of it? Water is good in white wash, but not in paint.

That—it requires more gallons of cheap paint to cover a job—hence more gallons to buy and more labor to apply, than it does of good paint—Kurfees Paint?

That—cheap paint in a very short time either rubs off or cracks, chips and scales off, and worst of all, leaves a most unsatisfactory surface for repainting?

That—if you once paint your house with cheap paint, it is difficult, expensive, often impossible, to ever again secure a good re-paint job, not even with good paint, for it will not stick and wear well over the old cheap paint surface?

That—good paint—Kurfees Paint—lasts for years, wears away gradually, so that when your house does need repainting, you have a good smooth surface ready to receive the fresh paint? No scraping or burning off.

That—because of these indisputable facts, and in spite of the fact that Kurfees Paint costs a little more per gallon than cheap paint, it is nevertheless the safest and cheapest paint to use, for its use means: Less gallons to buy, less labor to apply, and last but not least, it gives more years of service and protection. It is, therefore, the best, safest and cheapest paint to buy and use.

Before you buy paint, check the formula—that's the safe way. Watch for water and other cheap stuff. Be safe and save your money—paint your house with Kurfees House Paint, and use Dim-Tone, Flat-Tint and Granitoid Enamel for inside work.

We suggest that you read carefully the article on the left headed "Did You Know?"
