Duke Day Acclaimed As Best In History. Drs. Few And Greene Heard By Large Audience Monday

"Lake Must Be Saved For The Causes Of Civilization," Dr. W. P. Few Says

Dr. W. P. Few and Dr. W. K. Green, president and dean respectively of Duke University, were headline speakers Monday night as the Junaluska Methodist Assembly celebrated the biggest and best "Duke Day" in the history.

With ideal weather, Duke Day spirit ran high as Duke clans, including alumni, former students, the student body of the Junaluska summer school, affiliated with Duke, made merry on the auditorium lawn at the traditional old-fashioned picnic dinner, and gathered for the platform program in Stuart auditorium at 8 p. m. An orchestra concert by Frankie Gerard and his D-Men was a pleasant dinner accompaniment.

Dr. Paul N. Garber, principal of the Junaluska Summer school presided at the auditorium program. Henry R. Dwire, of the class of '02, director of public relations and alumni affairs, and Frank Ferguson, Jr., ex '29, representing the Haywood County Alumni Association, spoke briefly concerning Duke, its aims and ideals.

"The four year college is America's most important contribution to the theory of education," President W. P. Few declared. "The earliest settlers came college-minded from the mother country to these shores. Witness Harvard in Massachusetts and William and Mary in the Virginia colony, both originally planned in English models. And the college is still the best loved institution among us.

"The summer school is another important contribution America has made to educational theory. At many of our institutions, at Duke, the summer term is as important as a winter term. We give the same thought for summer students as for the other students and provide the same care of them. We are just as much concerned that you achieve satisfactory results as if you were among our students in Durham. You are not associated here with our campus and campus life, but you have come to love it, too. We are all anxious about it in this summer of crisis. It must be saved for the causes of civilization in the part of the country it is located. Strength then to all those who till now come to the help of Junaluska. For more than twenty years I have done what I could and will continue to do what I can for the promotion of Lake Junaluska and the great cause it is set to serve.

Dr. W. K. Green, dean of Curriculum, in speaking to the Duke Day assemblage, declared that probably the most significant development in the field of modern college education is the individualization of instruction for students and the effort to stimulate the student's participation in his own education. "Practically every plan setting for the progress that is being made in higher institutions of learning has to do with the matter of breaking mass production and lockstep methods of education."

"Another five thousand dollar subscription from a distinguished North Carolina family."

This message received last week from Dr. W. A. Lambeth, of High Point, director of the "Save Junaluska Campaign" to raise $105,000 by August 15, to release the Junaluska Assembly, now facing foreclosure proceedings, cheered leaders here. Dr. Lambeth, who was here Tuesday expressed the opinion that the amount would be raised by the date set, and indicated that the bulk of the sum would come in small amounts from a large number of persons. No names of donors of big gifts have been announced, although it is known that at least one other five thousand dollar gift has been received.

The members attending the North Carolina Press Association meeting in Waynesville were honor guests here Saturday night when Ward Wilcox, talented North Carolina baritone concert singer gave a concert in the Stuart auditorium.

Superintendent James Atkins has tendered the newspaper men and women the freedom of the Assembly during the present and ensuing week.

Climaxing six days of study, fun and worship, the Methodist Young People's Assembly of the Western North Carolina conference, closed Friday night with an impressive consecration service and Holy Communion, presided by a consecration meditation by the Rev. W. A. Rollins, of Waynesville.

Gathering up into a single arresting message the gist of the platform talks which the young people have heard during the week of the assembly there, "Building a Christian World," the Rev. Mr. Rollins selected as his theme the arresting imperative, "In His Name, Obey." For obedience, the Waynesville pastor pointed out, is the chief cornerstone in the building of a Christian life and a Christian world order.

College President Praises This Area

A citizen of Western North Carolina who finds increasing charm and variety in the Junaluska scene, Dr. L. L. Gobbell, president of Greensboro Woman's College, says place and its program have become firmly entrenched in his being, and in his opinion it would be a major tragedy if by untoward circumstance the Methodist training center here should be lost to the church.

Dr. Gobbell spent Tuesday and Wednesday at the lake visiting the Young People's Assembly and enjoying a brief vacation.

"I have been coming to Lake Junaluska for seventeen years," he said, "and the inspiration its beautiful mountains and lake, with their gorgeous colorings by night and by day, and matched by that of the programs put on by the various boards of the Methodist church, and the fellowship with the people who come here, make each trip a mountain-top experience indeed."
