Work Underway On Hazelwood's New Presbyterian Ch.

"Pay As You Build" Plan Adopted By Building Committee. Site And Brick Donated

Work on the Hazelwood Presbyterian church got underway a week ago and much progress has been made to date on the building which is being built on the corner of Main and Balsam streets.

The building is being built on a lot 125 by 125 feet. The site was donated by C. N. Allen, R. L. Prevost and J. P. Seares. J. W. Seaver gave the services on the surveying.

The brick for the building is being furnished by the John M. Beck memorial plant of Raleigh. The building will be of the gothic style.

The auditorium will be 50 by 400 feet and will seat 200 people. The singing capacity can be enlarged by raising folding doors which lead from the auditorium.

The Sunday school building is 32 by 40 feet. The first floor will be devoted to 4 departments for beginners, primary, junior and intermediate pupils. The second floor will be for the young people and fellowship hall.

The fellowship hall can accommodate 115 people at tables.

The work is not being contracted, but is in charge of a building committee composed of W. B. Winchester, J. S. Shields, R. G. Gaddis, and O. C. Landrum. A foreman is in charge of actual construction, and all materials are being paid for as purchased, using the slogan: "Pay as we build."

Quite a bit of free labor is being used on the building.

Florida Visitor Is Impressed With This Area, Coming Back

W. T. Brorein, President Of Telephone Company In Tampa. Sees Great Future For Section

"I have been greatly impressed with the prospects for agricultural and tourist development in this section, and have noticed marked improvements since my last trip through here many years ago," stated W. T. Brorein, of Tampa, who has spent the past two months here.

Speaking at length of the richness of the valleys, and coves of this section of the farms he had visited, and of the many products that can be grown to such perfection here, he touched on the tourist development, stating, "While I would advise that you do everything to entertain your guests, and I am greatly impressed with the spirit of cordiality that permeates here, I think that the building of great tourist hotels in this section would destroy much of the charm of your small hotels and their atmosphere of personal hospitality."

"I have visited many mountains in this country and in Europe, but never have I seen more attractive or beautiful hills than here. I think of the development of the park will mean more to Waynesville than to any other town in the surrounding territory, and that the President's visit here will have much to do with its completion in the near future," he continued.

Mr. Brorein is a native of the northwestern part of Ohio, and moved to Tampa 36 years ago, where he organized the Peninsula Telephone Company, of which he is president. It is one of the largest independent telephone companies in the country, with 18 exchanges, serving Tampa and the surrounding section, within a radius of 75 miles. He is also president of the Florida Fair, which ranks fourth in size of its kind in the country.

Mr. Brorein now plans to return to Waynesville next summer.

Young Boy Tells Truth About Breaking Window And Is Rewarded With Ice Cream

There is at least one honest boy in Waynesville—one that would rival even George Washington himself.

Monday afternoon a little eight-year-old school boy attempted to throw an apple over The Mountaineer building. His throw was a little short, and his apple crashed through a window on the second story into the offices of Morgan, Stamey and Ward.

S. H. Bushnell, secretary-treasurer of the Haywood Building and Loan Association, who also has an office on the second floor of the building, looked out and inquired as to what was the matter, the little boy answered: "I'm the one who broke your window. I tried to throw an apple over the building, and it went into the window instead."

The little fellow made no attempt to get away, but instead, volunteered to meet Mr. Morgan at five to see about the glass.

True to his word, the little fellow was at Mr. Morgan's office not at five o'clock, but at four-thirty. He was making sure he wouldn't be late.

While waiting for Mr. Morgan, he walked George H. Ward, owner of the building, and when he learned of the incident, and the way the little fellow acted, he admired him for his courage in admitting that he broke the glass, and sent the little heart-broken fellow on his way with enough money to buy ice cream—provided he wash the tears from his eyes.

The little fellow hesitated at length before taking the money but after having it thrust upon him went his way, just as happy as an eight-year-old boy could be and thanking Mr. Ward from the bottom of his heart.

When the little boy left, Mr. Ward instructed Miss Sylla Davis and Mr. Bushnell to buy a new window glass and pay for it—as the paper went to press, the glass had not been replaced.

TO OPEN JEWELRY STORE

W. K. CHANDLER

Jewelry Store Will Be Opened Here Next Ten Days

Chandler and Company, credit jewelers, a new firm, will be opened in town during the next ten days. They will be located in the store on Church street, formerly occupied by Tom Davis.

W. K. Chandler, of Asheville, the owner and manager, has had extensive experience in repair work.

A high class of merchandise will be carried, with diamonds and watches as their main line.

Mr. Chandler has recently been connected with a firm of credit jewelers in Asheville, and when asked why he selected Waynesville, he said: "I have traveled all over this part of the state from Spruce Pine to Murphy, investigating for a good location to open a business, and this town looked to me to be the most progressive one I visited."

Work On Armory To Get Underway Within Next Ten Days

W. E. Breese, district WPA administrator, told The Mountaineer yesterday that work on the two armories in Haywood county—at Waynesville and Canton—would get underway within the next ten days.

Mr. Breese did not know just how many people would be given employment on the two projects at first, but said a large number of unskilled workers would be used.

The two armories will cost about $32,000 each, and are being made possible by the co-operation of Haywood county, the two towns, and WPA. The county and towns are putting up half of the funds, and WPA the remainder.

Mr. Breese told The Mountaineer that he was just as happy to see the two armories come to Haywood county as that he had worked hard and long on these two projects. It is also interesting to note that Haywood is one of the two counties in Western North Carolina that is not in default with payments of debts. This was the main factor in being able to get the armories.

The Waynesville armory will be built on the lot just across the street from the Waynesville Wholesale Company.

Heavy Rains Play Havoc With Opening Days Of Fair

Organized Groups Have Splendid Exhibits. Few Individuals Entered Farm Exhibits

The continued dry weather of last summer, and the continued downpour of rain here Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, played havoc on the opening days of the third annual Haywood County Fair, which is being held on the old Band Mill lot, on the Dellwood road.

The summer drought caused agricultural exhibits to be cut to a scarce few, while the rain Tuesday night flooded the exhibition tents under twelve inches of water above the temporary flooring.

The sun late Wednesday afternoon was welcomed with smiles from the scores of show people who were drenched through and through. Some of the show people explained that Tuesday night's rain was the worst they had ever experienced, as they pointed to their mattresses and lines of clothes drying in the sun.

With fair weather the remainder of the week, fair officials are hopeful of equalling last year's gate receipts.

Two free acts are being staged daily, which is a high jump by Captain Harris, who jumps from a 60-foot ladder into a net.

Tomorrow will be one of the big days of the fair. It will be livestock day, with exhibits of dairy cattle, beef cattle, sheep and swine. It will also be school children day, and all pupils, when identified by teachers will be admitted free. Saturday will be horse and mule day.

While there was a conspicuous absence of individual exhibits, the organized groups and agencies in the county made a creditable showing.

At the center of the entrance in the exhibit building is the exhibition of the health department, which would be a credit to a state fair, in its detailed and complete illustration of the work under its administration.

The projects of the four 4-H Clubs in the county, representing a membership of 300 boys and girls of the county, was an outstanding exhibit. In this connection the calf projects will be exhibited on Friday. There appeared to be much interest in the awarding of the prizes in this group.

The exhibit of the WPA sewing room, representing 98 women from the sewing rooms of Waynesville, Cruso, Cecil, Clyde, Canton, and Hazelwood, came in for much attention, both as to the variety of articles, and the excellent manner in which they were made. One garment singled out was a small boy's suit, made out of a fertilizer sack, at the cost of 20 cents.

The Future Farmers of America had a display, that showed practically everything that can be grown in the county, with very good specimens of each variety. This has been an unusual year for the growing of pumpkins, if those shown in this exhibit are an indication.

Two excellent exhibits in the Live At Home contest were staged by Mrs. Fred Henry and Mrs. Frank Leonard, showing vegetables, meats, fruits, and dairy products.

In the County Home Demonstration booth was a model farm, and a large display of canned vegetables, fruits, and meats, which are entered in the canning contest.

The Haywood County Soil Conservation and Land Use Association had a splendid exhibit, illustrating erosion control and better farm methods, with their slogan, "As the Soil, So the People," above the booth.

C. N. Allen & Company had a display of the furniture made by the Unagusta Manufacturing Company, which would have been a credit to any show.

Martin Electric Company had a display that had strong appeal to the farm women, with the washing machine, kerosene refrigerator, Deleo lighting system for farms, and the electric pump, to supply the water from the springs.

Boyd Furniture Company also has a creditable exhibit.

Among the women's work, was also interesting exhibits by the adult education group in the county and the N. Y. L. Club, a group of the girls of the community.

Of special attraction was the display of the Land O' The Sky Co-operatives. They had on their shelves cans of everything canned in this section, with Mr. L. B. Staples in charge to explain. Last year the products from the cannery here, went into 11 states, with as many as 8 return orders, without a single turned down shipment. There were charts showing the production per acreage on some of the areas planted in this county.
