

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED
Centering the interest of friends and relatives of both the bride and the groom throughout the county, is the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Kitty Ferguson Noland, of Athens, Tenn., to Mr. Milag M Noland, which took place at the bride's home on October the 7th.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Samantha Baldwin Husky, and the late Riley C. Ferguson, and formerly resided in the county.

The groom is a well known business man of Waynesville, having served several terms as county commissioner, and is now a member of the board of aldermen of the town.

The couple will make their home at the Noland residence on Walnut street.

Mrs. Jake Newell, of Charlotte, who has spent several days with her father, Mr. C. A. Black and her sister, Miss Diana Black, returned on Sunday to her home.

Caroline Miller And Husband Are Parted

Last week it was disclosed that Caroline Miller, who won the Pulitzer prize in 1934 for her novel, "Lamb in His Bosom," and her husband had come to the parting of ways. Charging incompatibility, Mrs. Miller has filed suit for a divorce; and Mr. Miller has filed a cross bill asking for the custody of the eldest of their three sons, who is nine.

The Millers have spent the past three summers in Waynesville, and have numerous friends here. Mr. Miller who has been ill for the past two years, did not accompany the family here this summer.

In 1921, when she was 17 years of age, and just out of high school, Mrs. Miller married her English teacher, and principal, Will D. Miller. Her husband, she afterwards said, had first stirred her interest in literature and dramatics.

Christian Training School Starts On 8th

A Christian Workers Training School will be conducted at Long's Chapel, beginning Sunday, November the 8th and will last through the 13th, under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal churches of the county.

A course in missionary education for children will be offered, with Miss Corinne Little as instructor. This course will be given for interested parents and workers with children.

A course will be offered in the senior department of the Sunday school with the text, "Administering the Young People's department in the local church." Mrs. John E. Kirk, of Greensboro, will be the instructor of this group, which will be for the young people above sixteen years of age and their adult leaders. All counselors, officers and teachers should attend with the young people.

Rev. E. H. Nease, of Asheville will offer a course in worship, and his text will be "Guiding the Experience in Worship." The course is a general one in worship for any member of the church, church school, or missionary society.

While the courses are being held under the auspices of the Methodist church, all Sunday school and church workers of other denominations are invited to attend.

REVIVAL IS A SUCCESS

The revival services that have been conducted at Barbersville church by Rev. Ike Rhinehart, closed on Wednesday night. The meetings have been largely attended, with thirty professions of faith.

Rev. Mr. Rhinehart will begin services on Sunday night at Panther Creek, which will make the sixth revival meeting he has held in the county during the past few weeks. The conversions at the five churches have totaled 200.

BOY SCOUTS OF WAYNESVILLE

Mr. Brown, Scout Master of Troop 1, Waynesville called the Court of Honor to meet last Thursday night. The Court of Honor is composed of prominent men from the Rotary Club, Mr. Medford, Mr. Smith, and Dr. S. P. Gay, and also Mr. Bowles were present to see what fine work the boys were doing. Mr. Bowles also talked about what a fine organization it was.

The following boys went up for merit badges: Joe Davis and Ben Colkitt who were raised to a Star Scout. The badges will be awarded somewhere in public.

WILLIAM McCracken, Scout Serilo.
