

HERE and THERE

By Hilda Way Gwyn

Trying to make my way through the meeting crowd in the lobby of the court house on Monday of last week... I ran into Mr. C. B. Atkinson... who very courteously made a path through the jam to the office, where I had business... and he told me of a story he always recalled on first Mondays of court week... two of Haywood's well known citizens, once took themselves on an eventful journey to New York City... upon arriving at the station one turned to the other and said, "Why, we've struck court week up here."

Just think of the headaches... that might have been... On Saturday... in the presence of W. G. Byers, clerk of the Superior Court, who was called into witness the good... or extravagant deed... all according to your personal views... 63 gallons of liquor were poured out by the city police... taken from different individuals... the collection being greatly increased over Saturday morning and Saturday night, when they captured two cars, containing 31 and 16 gallons, respectively... some of it in ten gallon oaken kegs... ready to put on the Christmas market...

Did you read the letter to the Asheville Citizen appearing in the Sunday edition by Dr. E. W. Gudger... entitled, "Mountain Man Writes About Mountain People"... if you didn't, try and find the paper... and do so... if you are a native you will greatly appreciate his sentiments... you know we "mountain whites" have been described in so many ways that we instantly feel any misrepresentation, I, too, read the story, which appeared in a North Carolina publication... and noticed the many "boners" to which Dr. Gudger referred... no doubt you did too... aside from the great publicity the late Horace Kephart gave to this section and the Smoky Mountains area... I think he will always be remembered by those familiar with his writings—as one outsider—who told the real facts about us...

As this is being written the King and his cabinet are still disagreeing about Mrs. Simpson... and the American girl... is crashing all headlines in the dailies... I think "JoJo" expressed it quite well, when he said, "It's refreshing to know that there is one King, in Europe, who has his mind on love, and not war."

News briefs... Chairman Jake Lowe starting his term of office, in a brand new hat... Representative John Cabe anxiously awaiting the arrival of his new suit ordered by a local department store... he was planning to wear it to Raleigh... haven't heard whether or not it came before he left Wednesday... Woman's Exchange moved to building opposite Masonic Temple... Edwin Haynes taking leave of the office of the Register of Deeds, which he has so ably filled for the past four years... been a lot of marrying and giving in marriage during that time... to be exact 937 marriage licenses have been sold... did not have time to check up on the number severed through the office across the hall... little children gazing wistfully at the toy counters in the Five and Tens... which reminds me, have you looked up those broken toys... or better still have you given Oscar Briggs that dollar yet for the Community Christmas Tree?... time getting short... signs of Christmas everywhere... Clyde Ray... saying the ship didn't leave New York... but he had to... so he is back in overalls hard at work... with the "world" forgotten... at least until after Christmas...

If you want to read something quite sophisticated... full of modern feminine counsel read "Live Alone and Like It"... recently put on the rental shelf of the Waynesville Public Library... and for some time rated as one of the best sellers of non-fiction... Martha Mock says it wouldn't do her any good to read the book, because she could never "Live Alone and Like It."
