THIS IS A
TYPICAL BLOW-OUT
ACCIDENT

EVERY year blow-out accidents kill or injure thousands. A blow-out gives no warning. It strikes when you least expect it—throwing your car out of control.

But there's no reason why you should take this risk. Goodrich engineers have invented an amazing new safety device, the Life-Saver Golden Ply to give you real blow-out protection. This Golden Ply is a layer of special rubber and full-finishing cords, scientifically treated to resist the terrific heat-causing heat generated inside all tires by today's high speeds. The Life-Saver Golden Ply is found in only one tire—the Goodrich Safety Silvertown, yet Silvertowns actually cost less than other super quality tires. Come in and let us demonstrate to you how this invention protects you against blow-outs.

Present Law Won't Permit Park Opening, F. D. R. Is Told

Park Service Tells President That $745,000 Needed To Purchase 37,000 Remaining Acres

Col. James Roosevelt, White House secretary, notified members of the North Carolina delegation in Congress Wednesday that President Roosevelt had been advised by the National Park Service that "it is impossible under the law" to open the North Carolina side of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park while the project is in its present status.

The National Park Service was reported to have put its foot down on any attempt to open the North Carolina side of the park until the scheduled acreage is bought and the entire park can be opened officially. The park lies partly in North Carolina and partly in Tennessee.

In answer to an inquiry made by President Roosevelt on the possibility of opening the North Carolina side of the park, Arno B. Cammerer, Park Service director, had said:

"It is neither possible under the law nor contemplated by it that the Great Smoky Mountains National park be established in only one State. The acts of Congress require a comprehensive acreage in both States for its establishment."

He added that it would be contrary to the agreement with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the chief donor to the park fund, to open the North Carolina side of the park.

According to the park service $745,000 is needed to purchase 37,000 remaining acres with North Carolina's equitable share at $398,000 and Tennessee's at $347,000. This fund would have to be raised through a congressional appropriation, as no other money is available.

If You Are Bald, Take Hope, You Can Have Hair

The bald-headed row learned last week that a plastic surgical operation might be a way to avoid the shining hairless pate of middle age, and often of youth. Dr. Gustave Aufrecht told the Dental Society of New York State that an operation would loosen the skin of the scalp and increase the blood supply, thus overcoming what are in some circles assumed to be the cause of the common masculine affliction.
