Engineers Begin Survey On Water Plant Enlargement

Engineers began work Monday morning for the town of Waynesville, to determine the best method to be used to increase the water supply for the system.

Town officials were not given any assurance as to the date the survey would be completed. The work will include plans for building a new filtering plant at the intake on the mountain, it was learned.

Efforts will be made to work out plans whereby the eight-inch main from the mountain to the present filtering plant can be made to furnish ample water to the town without the laying of an additional line.

Town officials are hopeful of getting a WPA project through, which would give a 45 per cent grant and a 55 per cent grant for the work.

The engineering firm of Harwood-Beebe, of Spartanburg, have been employed to do the preliminary surveying, and to make a detailed report.

Gov. Hoey To Formally Open '38 Lake Program

Lake Speaker

Annual Haywood County Day Will Be Held Sunday. Plans Completed For Big Season

The program at the Methodist Assembly will get into full swing Sunday, June 26, when the Governor, Clyde R. Hoey, delivers at eleven o'clock the Haywood County Day address.

Haywood County Day at Lake Junaluska has become a tradition. Once each year the assembly management extends a cordial invitation to all citizens of Haywood county to assemble in the auditorium to hear an address delivered by some outstanding North Carolinian. Last year the Honorable Josephus Daniels, ambassador from the United States to Mexico, spoke to an audience that filled the large auditorium. Governor Hoey spoke at the Methodist Assembly last year during the first week in July. His visit to Haywood county next Sunday is expected to attract a large number of people. On Haywood County Day Junaluska's neighbors are given free admission other assembly privileges.

Miss Katherine Ray, property manager, and her coterie of assistants have set the assembly buildings and grounds in order. E. R. Riddell, director of recreation, has put the golf course and club house in condition for the pleasure and comfort of those who enjoy such privileges. Professor Walter Vassar, director of music, and Mrs. Vassar have arrived and are making plans for the musical phase of the summer's program.

Professor J. M. Ormond, program manager, and Mrs. Ormond have been at the assembly for a week. Professor Ormond is teaching in the Junaluska Summer School and performing last minute duties for the formal opening of the nine weeks daily schedule of activities.

Sunday Rev. E. H. Nease, minister of the West Asheville Methodist church, delivered the sermon at eleven o'clock. A phase in the fourth chapter of Philippians: "Think on these things," was used as a text. Mr. Nease said in part: "We live in a world with too little real thinking. No one can attain the highest ends in life who does not think conscientiously. In a noisy world like ours we should get alone with God in whose presence we can do our best thinking. It is only through right thinking that we can make reality our own."

The Methodist Assembly, established in 1913, is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary this summer. The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at its recent session in Birmingham, accepted the assembly and elected a board of trustees who are to manage the property and program. Bishop Paul B. Kern, Dr. W. A. Lambeth, and Dr. W. P. Few, who have constituted the holding board of trustees since the liquidation of a large indebtedness in the summer of 1936, will be succeeded by the new board of trustees in September of this year.

Some of the major features of this year's program are the Junaluska Summer School, of which Dr. Paul N. Garber is director; the Western North Carolina Conference School for Christian workers; the Council of Christian Social Order; the Leadership School; the Missionary Conference; the Pastors' Conference; the Young People's Leadership Conference; Lay Activities Conference, and Preaching Week.

In addition to these Camp Cheeda will be open one month for girls, a two-weeks Bible lecture series will be offered, special musical and dramatic programs will be presented, leisure-time activities will be continued throughout the season for children, young people, and adults.

Changes Made In Payment Of Shares To Building-Loan

New Plan Puts Payments On A Monthly Basis Instead Of Weekly Payments As Heretofore

As a matter of convenience for the shareholders the directors of the Haywood Home Building and Loan Association, recently amended the by-laws, and have inaugurated a system, effective July first, which will put all shares on a monthly basis instead of the weekly plan.

Heretofore, shares were twenty-five cents for each Saturday. One share some months amounting to four dollars a month, and for five months in the year there would be five Saturdays and the amount would be increased to $125.

The new plan, according to S. H. Bushnell, secretary-treasurer, will make it easier on the shareholders, and also those who are paying on loans. The amount will be the same every month.

A new series opens on July first, and three classes of stock will be available: Class "A," the 25-cent share, or one dollar a month, maturing in 7 years; Class "B," the 12 1/2-cent share, or fifty cents a month, and maturing in 12 years; Class "C," is fifty cents a share, or two dollars a month, and matures in three and a half years. Each share, when matured, is worth one hundred dollars.
