

Germany's Biggest Guns—as Seen in Nazi Papers

Although press dispatches told of confiscation of pictures of Germany's biggest guns outside the Reich, newspapers in Berlin were permitted to use them as this picture shows. This giant gun has a barrel 25 feet in length and possesses a range of about 20 miles, reminiscent of the "Big Bertha" which shelled Paris during the World war, firing shells a distance of 75 miles.

property from the park service. As the park officials would not allow any expansion and they felt their business warranted more accommodations, last year Mr. and Mrs. Alexander gave up the lease with an idea of owning their own ranch.

From early spring until late in the fall the ranch was one of the most popular resorts in this section for tourists. Most of the guests were from the middle West and the East.

The Cataloochee ranch was chosen as headquarters for the Wilderness Pack Trip of the American Forest Association, last year the only trip of its kind taken by the group in the Eastern part of America, the others being made in the West. Owing to favorable climatic conditions here, two such trips were made last year by the group, one in June and another in September, while in the West only one trip a year is feasible in the centers chosen.

The two trips of last year consumed twelve days, with two spent at the ranch on arriving and leaving and the other ten in the forests. They took with them 32 horses, 20 to ride and 12 for pack horses for their provisions and camp equipment. The group has communicated with Mr. Alexander about trips for next season.

Mr. Alexander brings to this new development a wide experience. He is a native of Georgia, and trained in forestry. He spent 6 years in the United States Forest service, first as ranger, and then junior forester and later as district supervisor of the Southeastern states. This territory includes the states of Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina and Virginia and West Virginia.

Following the years spent in the U. S. Forest service, Mr. Alexander was for 8 years manager for the James B. Lacy Company, handling timber lands. Then he had four years of his own business marketing timber lands in Florida and the Appalachians. He has lived in Western North Carolina for the past twenty years.

A Victory Snack

Senator Millard E. Tydings, one of those marked on the President's "purge" list, is shown eating a bite while listening to returns from Maryland precincts, which gave him the nomination over administration-backed David J. Lewis, in Monday's primary.

Yesterday, Georgia voters ended their hottest primary, and early returns last night gave Senator George a substantial lead over former governor Eugene Talmage, with candidate Camp, a hand-picked Roosevelt man, trailing in third place.

Mayor Maybank, of Charleston, took a lead over Manning in South Carolina's second primary for governor Tuesday.

On The Rounds With The Circulation Man

Imagine one housewife having one hundred guests for noonday dinner. Well, that's what Mrs. Jack Hipps, of the Sunburst section was faced with last Friday—the day of the fifth annual get-together of Hereford cattle breeders of North Carolina. Mrs. Hipps being host.

And what a dinner it was! Fried chicken, roast beef, both done to a perfect brown, green beans, carrots, boiled potatoes, corn bread—well, along about there, the circulator lost count. Couldn't have sold a subscription after all that, or made a collection.
