

Annual Flower Show Outstanding Success

Sweepstakes Won By Miss Kathryn Queen; Many Enter

Show Acclaimed To Have Been Best In Several Years, Was Held Here Tuesday

The annual Flower Show sponsored by the garden committee of the Women's Club, according to the judges, was one of the best in several years, with the flowers of exceptional quality. The show was staged in the building on Main street formerly occupied by Raiff's department store. Miss Kathryn Queen was the winner of the grand sweepstakes prize, which was based on the number of individual prizes won.

The entries of J. B. Ivey, of Lake Junaluska and Charlotte, none of which competed for prizes, held exhibits of unusual beauty, with combinations of shades of one color from the deepest to the lightest tones. Two large baskets of several varieties in shades of yellow to deep orange and another in orchid to deep purple drew admiration from all.

W. T. Shelton, one of the largest exhibitors, had entries in many classes, his largest display in dahlias, two varieties of special merit being, "The Lord of Autumn" and the "Prince of Persia." The zinnias, roses, nasturtiums, and gladioli gave variety and color to his collections.

The arrangements entered by Clyde H. Ray, Jr., florist, of flowers in delicate shades of pink and blue in containers suitable to send a new mother and infant were of special interest.

The entries in the wild bower class drew attention, one by Mrs. Roy Platt, of Dellwood and Statesville, and another by Mrs. Bill Stembler, of Miami, and Mrs. Hugh Abel. The last named exhibit represented a mountain cove with a spring and stream, and mosses, logs and rocks gave a realistic setting to the large collection of wild bowers. The following varieties were noted: blue and red lobelia, pink and white turtle, purple and red bee balm, snake root, asters in variety saxifraga, foam bowers, wild lespedeza, Blue Bells of Scotland, ferns in variety, turkey bean, golden rod, Jack-in-the-pulpit in fruit, gentians, iron weed, yellow fringed orchid, monkey face, Achilleas, Queen Ann' lace and a number of others.

The display of asters by Mrs. M. A. Hartt and Donald Dunham was one of the best noted in several years, in this flower, as the date of the show often misses the aster at its best.

The prize winners were as follows: 1—Largest display of dahlias grown in Haywood county—(a) W. T. Shelton, (b) Clarence Campbell.

2—Best vase of dahlias—(a) W. T. Shelton, (b) Clarence Campbell.

3—Best display of pompons, (a) Mrs. George Kunze, (b) Clarence Campbell.

4—Best combination of two or more varieties of flowers, (a) Mrs. J. W. Killian, (b) Mrs. Rufus Siler.

6—Best collection of giant zinnias, (a) Donald Dunham, (b) Mrs. R. Q. McCracken.

7—Best collection of dwarf zinnias, (a) Mrs. E. K. Herman, (b) Mrs. M. G. Stamey.

8—Best collection of calendulas, (a) no prize given, (b) Mrs. R. Q. McCracken.

9—Best collection of nasturtiums, (a) Mrs. M. G. Stamey, (b) Mrs. C. F. Kirkpatrick.

10—Best collection of marigolds, giants, (a) Mrs. Rufus Siler, (b) Mrs. Paul Hyatt.

11—Best collection of marigolds, dwarf, (a) Nancy Killian, (b) Mrs. M. G. Stamey.

12—Best collection of asters, (a) Mrs. M. A. Hartt, (b) Donald Dunham.

13—Best collection of roses, (a) Mrs. John Queen, (b) W. T. Shelton.

14—Best collection of snapdragons, no entry.

15—Best collection of pinks, (a) Kathryn Queen.

16—Best collection of phlox, (a) Kathryn Queen, (b) Mrs. R. H. Stretcher.

17—Best collection of scabiosa, (a) Kathryn Queen, (b) Mrs. C. E. Ray.

18—Best collection of verbena, (a) Kathryn Queen, (b) no prize.

19—Best collection of wild flowers, (a) Mrs. Hugh Abel and Mrs. Bill Stembler, (b) Mrs. Roy Platt.

Serving as judges were: Mrs. G. Latta Clement and Mrs. W. Harrold Bell, of Asheville. The members of the local committee were Mrs. John M. Queen, Mrs. C. F. Kirkpatrick, Mrs. George Kunze, Mrs. C. N. Sisk,

French Army Reserves Move Toward Border

Shock troops of the French army march near Besancon, France

Coincident with the opening of the Nazi party congress at Nuremberg, Germany, France moved an undisclosed number of her 8,000,000 trained reserves toward German frontier fortifications as a "precautionary measure". French troops are seen above at Besancon, France, marching during maneuvers. Their ranks now will be swelled considerably.
