Burley Growers Will Vote On November 21

Share In 1939 Burley Eligible To Vote In Referendum

Referendum on burley tobacco quotas for 1940 will be held Tuesday, November 21, E. Y. Floyd, AAA executive at State College, says that of quotas for next year's crop prices of this year's crop are known that producers will be adjusted to probable prices. He said that every percentage of the proceeds of the crop in 1939, either as tenant, or share-cropper, is eligible to vote in the referendum.

It is pointed out that the European war is not likely to help the price of burley tobacco, because of the 4 per cent, or from 12 million pounds, of the burley normally exported annually.

Amendments to the Federal Act were passed by the regular session of Congress, and said that they vitally affect burley quotas. Most important was the change in the allotting of quotas from a per acreage basis.

It means that each farmer must produce without penalty the production of his acreage. The AAA officer explained that since co-operating farmers can now market all of their tobacco, there will be no quotas from one farm to another. Non-co-operating farmers will have a flat penalty of $100 per pound on tobacco in excess of the actual production on their acreage.

It is said that because of the burley stocks resulting from the 1940 allotment, the 1940 allotment will require adjustment from the planting to bring supply in line with consumption. Average reduction from the allotments will be about 10 per cent for regular tobacco programs, the Triple A executive said.

W.N.C.'s First Big Game Management Plan Established In Area About Soco Gap

Owners of 13,500 acres of good hunting lands in Haywood have signed 5-year contracts with the State Department of Conservation and Development for the establishment of the first big game management area in Western North Carolina, it was learned this week from E. L. Meadows, field biologist of game and inland fisheries.

This area designated as Plott Mountain Game Area, consists of the section from Waynesville to the Jackson County line, up to Soco Gap, down Highway No. 293 to Dellwood and along Highway 284 from Dellwood to Waynesville.

The purpose of establishing the area, according to Mr. Meadows, is to regulate hunting and give the landowner more complete control of hunting on his property. He does this by issuing daily written permits to those who he feels are good sportsmen and will respect his wishes.

The regulation of hunting is expected to save enough breeding stock to carry the area over from year to year, as only a certain percentage of game will be allowed to be taken.

Haywood Cow Is Back After Stay At New York Fair

"Mona" Of Garden Creek Kicks Up Heels In Glee Upon Arrival At Home

Four North Carolina purebred dairy cows—three Guernseys and an Ayrshire, are back home, after staying six months at the Dairy World of Tomorrow at the New York World's Fair.

Among the returning heroines are Mona of Garden Creek, owned by H. Arthur Osborne, Canton, and Cletta's Fair Lady, of Eliada, owned by the Eliada Home Dairy Children, near Asheville.

Mona arrived Saturday, by train from New York. When she got to the Osborne farm, she kicked up her heels, and apparently was tickled to get back home.

Mr. Osborne said that she stood the trip fine, and that the excitement and close confinement had made but little difference in her production records during her New York stay.

Two students of State College who are taking a course in dairying, cared for the four North Carolina cows during the trip back home.

Vere S. Culver, nationally famous livestock judge, who has had charge of the Dairy World of Tomorrow cows stated: "In my 30 year's experience with cows this purebred World's Fair herd of 150"

Merchants Will Meet To Discuss Christmas Plans

Plans for the annual Christmas program will be the subject for discussion by the merchants and business men of the community on Tuesday night, at a supper meeting.

The group will meet at the American Restaurant at 7 o'clock, and then adjourn to the Chamber of Commerce offices for the business session.

A representative committee met this week and made drafts of plans and stockings of toys and distributed them at Christmas.

The general plan has always been to go out and find a destitute family, provide for them, without checking and seeing if the same family was going to be helped by another group. In many instances, some families got more than their share, while others, just as deserving, were forgotten.

This was not at all intentional, but it is always bound to happen unless there is some organized (Continued on page 2)

Work Will Begin As Soon As Project Is Approved In Washington

The allocation of funds for the construction of a new school building at Clyde has been approved by the state WPA officials, it was learned here Monday from the county superintendent of education.

As soon as the project is approved in Washington work will begin on the new school building, over which there has been some controversy among officials as to the necessity of a new building at this time, or making repairs on the present school.

"We had hoped to have the project approved and work started by the first of December, but have been delayed pending the approval in Washington of the allocation of funds," said Jack Messer, county superintendent of education in discussing the matter with a representative of The Mountaineer.

The project calls for 45 per cent of the funds from WPA and the county putting up 55 per cent of the expense involved in the erection of the building, and the purchase of a new site.

Mr. Messer stated that no definite steps had as yet been taken regarding another site for the building, but as soon as the project was approved the land would be bought.

October Travel In Park Is Eight Percent Over '38

More Than 77,500 Persons Visited Park, In About 25,000 Cars

Unusually fine fall colors attracted a record breaking number of October visitors to Great Smoky Mountains National Park. A total of 77,524 persons in 24,967 vehicles visited the park during the month, 54 per cent of whom were from states other than Tennessee and North Carolina in which the park is located. Increase over October, 1938 is 8 per cent.

Visitors were from 48 states, the District of Columbia, Canal Zone, Hawaii, Bohemia, Ontario, Quebec, China, Cuba, France, Haiti, Japan, and Panama. States in number of visitors: (1) Tennessee, (2) North Carolina, (3) Ohio, (4) Illinois, (5) Indiana, (6) Georgia.

Fall colors were at their best on Sunday, October 22, and hundreds of persons flocked to the park on that day to view the majestic mountains cloaked in a myriad of colors against a background of blue sky. The lack of rain during the month brought the color out during the middle of the period and they remained for an unusually long time.

Ministers Plan Loyalty Drive Of All Churches

The Haywood County Ministerial Association has decided to hold a special meeting on next Monday at 10 o'clock at the First Methodist church to discuss plans for a county wide loyalty campaign in all the churches of the various faiths in the county.

Rev. H. K. Marsteller, pastor of the Canton Baptist church, led the discussion regarding the proposed plans, in which he stated that he had recently consulted with the educational directors of the First Baptist church of Asheville, where the plan was in operation.

It was brought out by the Rev. Marsteller that to be effective the campaign must last at least 10 weeks, and in order to devote that much time to the cause, it would be necessary to start the first Sunday in January to close by Easter, which is in March this year.

Rev. Marsteller also suggested that the ministers take the same topics for their sermons during the ten weeks.

General Haywood

GETS A FEW THINGS OF COUNTY-WIDE INTEREST OFF HIS MIND WITH LETTERS

Haywood Citizens:—

With Christmas less than six weeks away, our thoughts naturally turn to the matter of spreading cheer during the holiday season, and of course, we look around at the less fortunate, and make plans to help them enjoy the season.

As long as I can remember, individuals, Sunday school classes, and organizations have prepared baskets of food, boxes of clothing
