Informal Evening

By VERA WINSTON

THE revival of the shirt and skirt fashion for evening has gone sheer this season, with lingerie and chiffon up in front as fabrics. This soft, becoming model with its jabot neckline is a mist of mousseline de soie in drift white, its frills edged with old-fashioned tating lace. The Gibson Girl belt is black velvet.

"SIMPLICITY"

Simplicity, of all things, is the hardest to be copied.—Stoddard

Simplicity of character is a natural result of profound thought.—Hazlitt.

"Love one another if John is the most simple and profound counsel of the inspired words of Mary Baker Eddy.

Goodness and simplicity are disolubly united.—Martineau.

Miami, who were guests of Lodge last week, have gone to a little bird told me they are on their honeymoon. I kept secret and didn't tell for I couldn't have picked a more spot to spend a quiet honeymoon than Balsam. Next time they to Balsam we won't let them themselves like they were time for we would like to see them. Perhaps they will have "Honey Moon Cabin" her next few years, and come again and again. We hope so way.
