Blackie Bear

MRS. MAN REALLY COOKS FOR BLACKIE

Story 80

How in the world would the Creek Folks get along without Jay Bird?

He goes just wherever he pleases and hears everything, and yet nobody ever pays any attention to him. People don't even bother him when he goes in a cherry tree or grape vine to get his dinner. He is just a bird—that's all, so far as Mr. Man and Uncle Joe can see. But to Blackie and the boys he is a lot more than a bird. He is a mail carrier, a telephone, a radio—everything that carried news or messages, and they simply wouldn't know how to get along without him.

You remember that for the past week or two, Mrs. Man has been canning vegetables and fruits, and drying apples and fixing up lots of wintertime things. Of course, Jay Bird has been watching her while she has been doing all of this, and has been telling Blackie about it. Did any of you children ever eat dried "turnovers" made of dried apples? Certainly you have and nobody needs to ask you whether you like them.

It was Saturday and tomorrow Mr. and Mrs. Man were going to church. There were to be two sermons—one in the morning and one in the afternoon, and everybody was going to carry their dinner and it was going to be the very best dinner they could fix.

Mrs. Man certainly did fix up a lot of good things to take along, and you may be sure that she had a big pile of those dried apple turnovers.

She was at the window piling them up in a basket, all cries-croaking each other so they could cool and dry, when Jay Bird came up. Lots of people in the country have what they call a "spring house" out in the yard under a big tree. They use it in the place of a refrigerator, and they keep milk and butter and other things that they want to keep cool in it.

Well, Mrs. Man wanted those turnovers to keep nice and cool for the Sunday meeting dinner, so she took the basket out and put it on a shelf in the spring house. And Jay Bird just "happened" to see her do it.

You had just as well know that Jocko liked turnovers about as well as Mr. Man did, and Jay Bird had heard him talk about the way his Mistress used to make them. It wasn't long before Jocko knew all about what was in the spring house.

But now what about getting the dogs out of the way that night? Any time that Who-Who Owl would fly down close to Mr. Man's chicken house and say "who-who" the dogs would run out after him and would follow him out in the woods. Jocko sent Jay Bird over for Who-Who, and they fixed it all up. Who-Who flew down near the chicken house, and made about the worst noise any owl ever did make. In a minute Rover Dog and his wife were out of their house and right after Who-Who and were making more noise than he was. And where was Jocko? No use to tell you; you already know. He was right up in the spring house grabbing that basket of turnovers, and doing some fast running back to Blackie's house with his good Sunday dinner.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained to Women
A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering! It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition. Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress. Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years!
