

High School Pupils Make Records Of Music And Speech

A good number of the students at Waynesville township high school suffered a new kind of stage fright on Monday when a recording machine made records of the high school and junior bands, members of the boys' and girls' glee clubs, and the dramatic club.

The record-making was part of a guidance program that is being carried in the school program year. The machine was loaned by the Western Carolina Teachers College.

The object of the recording is to make records for use in studying and pointing out improvements that can be made.

The band played several numbers, also the glee clubs, and each member of the dramatic club gave a reading, the latter records used in corrections in voice speech.

Crabtree Honors At Crabtree-Iron Duff School Announced

An announcement of Taylor Rogers, as valedictorian and of Charles H. Ross, as salutatorian of the class of the Crabtree-Iron Duff high school has recently been made.

Taylor Rogers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Rogers, of Clyde, route 1. Charles H. Ross is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard W. Ross, of Clyde.

Both boys are members of the school team. Rogers is the president of the senior class and the agriculture club. Ross is president of the senior class.

The fifth issue of the "Crabtree Echo," a student publication has been published.

"Foolin'," a three-act comedy presented by the Crabtree class on March the 14th, taking part include: Edith Gertrude Haney, Catherine G. Helen Noland, Ethel Hog-

Osa Johnson Marries

Seven Persons Are Confirmed In Grace Church Tuesday

Bishop R. E. Gribbin, of Asheville, of the Western North Carolina diocese of the Episcopal church, administered the rite of confirmation to seven persons at Grace Church in the Mountains, on Tuesday evening.

Those taken into the church included, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hardin, Jr., and son, Bobby, Mrs. William Shoobred, Mrs. Leo Hill, Elsie Jane Green, young daughter of Mrs. M. C. Green, and Miss Jane White, daughter of Mrs. Clarence White.

Following the confirmation rights Bishop Gribbin delivered an impressive sermon.

Make-Up Artist Will Address Dramatic Folk At W.C.T.C. On Saturday

Thomas Horwitz, eminent make-up artist, author and lecturer, will give a lecture-demonstration on the Art of Theatrical make-up, before the 2 drama groups of Western Carolina Teachers College at 8 o'clock in the Student Union building, on Saturday night.

Inasmuch as the lecture at Western Carolina Teachers College will be the only one scheduled for this area, an invitation is extended to the faculty and students of drama departments in all the public school and to the members of the several dramatic organizations and photographic societies in Western North Carolina.

Local All-Stars To Meet Champion 'Y' Here Friday, 7:30

There will be a double cage attraction on the local court Friday night between the All-Stars of Waynesville and the strong Champion "Y" basketeers. The opening whistle is scheduled for 7:30, with a small admission to be charged.

The local cagers have been improving as the season progressed, and are expected to give the visitors a run for their money.

The all-star teams are made up of the nurses in the girls division and former star players from here and elsewhere in the boys.

Little Known Facts In The Life Of Adolph Hitler

Adolf Hitler, in leisure moments, will quietly sit down at a table and personally test the weight and balance of knives, forks and spoons he is planning to give away as a wedding present.

It is one of the things which often surprise his intimates from whom these details of his daily life were obtained—that the man who is carrying out the announced idea of giving Europe a painful new face-lifting operation would, for instance, devote considerable time to designing silverware.

But this he does; in fact, he designed the silverware for his Berchtesgaden retreat as well as for the

Some Worries

His associates describe him as "not overly particular about little things in his daily life." In turn, he worries somewhat about the Prussian punctuality that is the very spirit of his underlings in the Reichschancellery.

On coming from his quarters in the Chancellery down to his workroom, he shakes hands with each of his help, asking after their particular joys or troubles, custom followed more generally in Germany than America.

Besides the Reichschancellery, he has several private dwellings—and an apartment in Munich upon which he has paid rent regularly each month for the past 20 years and upon the door of which still is tacked the nameplate "Adolf Hitler, author."

"Best Seller"
After all, he is the writer of one of the best-sellers of all time—"Mein Kampf"—of which some 6,000,000 copies have been issued.

His old apartment in Munich is just like thousands of other apartments often seen in Germany. It is at Prinzregenten place 16. On the occasion of the Munich conference Neville Chamberlain and Benito Mussolini visited him there.

Bomb-Cellars
More recently, a more palatial dwelling has been built for him by the State in Munich.

It is understood all his houses are well-provided with bomb raid cellars.

This is certainly true of the Reichschancellery, where a group of several dozen children from an orphanage are brought nightly in huge Government busses for undisturbed sleep.

Table Reserved
Like all other Munich citizens he has a stammtisch—table reserved for a special group. One is at the Carlton tea house, a quite elegant spot seldom found by strangers.

Another stammtisch is in a restaurant in the newly-built "House of German Art."

From his income from "Mein Kampf" alone he is assured an adequate private income—the amount of which is undisclosed.

Charged with looking after his daily program is Group Leader Julius Schaub, a comrade since 1919.

Special Chauffeur
He has a special chauffeur, S. S. Brigade Leader Kemaka, who has driven the Fuehrer's car since his favorite chauffeur, Julius Schreck, died in 1936.

Hitler's favorite towns are Munich, Goldesberg and Bayreuth. The list fails to include Prussian-directed Berlin.

His intimates paint a picture of Hitler that is a far cry from the ravaging monster on the head of massed troops he so often is pictured abroad.

He is a good mixer, they say, tells a good story well and has an endless list of tales of party battles ranging back through the 20 years of the Nazi rise to power.

Aided Policeman
The huge towering traffic policeman in front of the Reichschancellery, known all over Berlin as Siegfried, tells of the time his wife was critically ill, and Hitler, learning about it, sent her to the hospital and paid the bill from his own pocket.

Associates say Hitler has almost hypnotic capacity to incite men to extend themselves to the utmost.

Mrs. P. L. Turbyfill had as her guest during the past week her daughter, Mrs. G. N. Henson, of Spindale, and over the week-end her granddaughter, Miss Ruth Henson, and her grandsons, G. N. Henson, Jr., of Gastonia, and Bill Henson, of Spindale. Mrs. Henson returned to her home in Spindale on Sunday. She was accompanied by her mother, who will remain with her for a fortnight's visit.

Ottoman Empire's Army
The Ottoman empire was for years without a standing army until in 1330 one was made up of forced levies of Christian children. The troops became known as Janisaries.
