Only American who took part in the aerial bombardment which preceded British capture of Bardia, important Italian base in Libya, was Sergeant H. Thomson Brundidge, 23, of St. Louis, Mo., an RAF gunner. Brundidge holds a civilian pilot's license and has been recommended for a commission in the Royal Air Force.

Much Discussed Warren Textbook Recalled Monday

Historians Are Requested To Study Book And Make Corrections

The Warren textbook, "North Carolina Yesterday and Today," which has stirred up so much adverse criticism in state educational circles was recalled on Monday for correction, following the closing of schools this spring.

At the same time the state board of education voted to recall the book, Governor Broughton announced the receipt of and acceptance of Warren's resignation as a member of the school commission. The resignation was made, the Governor said, "in view of the fact that Warren is in a contractual relation with the state," since the state has contracted to buy the history he authored.

A number of errors in Warren's book have been pointed out by educators in the state, and the board of education recognized the book contained errors by its action.

The Governor said that Secretary C. C. Crittenden, of the Historical Commission and H. A. Perry, superintendent of the division of instructional service of the state board of education had been requested "to make a further study of the Warren book with the view of pointing out other errors and checking on those errors that have been pointed out."
