THE OLD HOME TOWN

WHO WILL WEAR A POPPY?

By Vera Williams. Who will wear a poppy On our Poppy Day? "I will," says the mother, "For five boys who went away."

Who will wear a poppy To honor those who fell? "I will," says the doctor; "I've some memory of that hell."

"I will," the welfare worker says, "I know what poppies do For widows of our veterans And their helpless families, too."

"I will," says the World War veteran "There are close ties that bind Each one of us to help the rest The crippled and the blind."

"I will," says the preacher, "I don't believe in war, But I do believe in healing wounds That's what the poppy's for."

No single one replies, "I won't, I won't." Instead, with what a thrill We hear each good American say When asked to buy, "I will."

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Rheim, of Ramseur, N. C., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers, Jr., over the week-end.

J. E. Whisenhunt, Jr., who is employed at Hartsville, S. C., spent the week-end here with his parents.

those hours of work, but he says that at this time of the year he must work his garden before he goes to sleep.

In all, he gets at the best, around four hours of sleep. For there is never the slightest danger he says of his taking a nap at night, for he must punch the time clock every hour, and he has never failed or neglected the requirement.

"Part of my duty as night watchman is to clean up the building, and as I take my own time about it, it fills up a lot of the minutes and hours," he said.

"Then you'd be surprised how much I am disturbed until around midnight." Somebody wanting their laundry after hours," he said.

"Then often I read, but it makes no difference what I'm doing I never get lonesome. This is not the first time I have worked at night. Once at a CCC camp at Old Fort I worked at night on an air compressor drilling holes in rocks in road building, for several months," he added.

Mr. Sheehan is a native of Jackson county, but has spent most of his life in Haywood county. He is married and has three small children.

chine in gear, thinking he could use the engine as a brake.

Finally after passing curves at a fast rate, the car struck a drainage ditch on the outside of the road and turned over. Mr. Bridgers was thrown out of the machine and struck the highway. His chest was crushed and his skull fractured.

Mr. Bird suffered a crushed jaw and other injuries about the face and head. Mr. Whisenhunt suffered severe injuries about the face and an injured ankle.

An ambulance from a nearby CCC camp came along and took the men to the CCC camp for emergency treatment, and then to the C. J. Harris Memorial Hospital in Sylva. Mr. Bridgers died a few minutes after reaching the hospital.

Mr. Bridgers, a native of Birmingham, Ala., had resided in Asheville for the past 16 years and is said to have done more than any other one person in interesting people to take scenic trips in this section. His friends referred to him as a 'one-man chamber of commerce.' During the last decade he had traveled extensively over
