Beginning of World Missions.

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON 6-7

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for June 8 is Acts 12:25-13:12, the Golden Text being Mark 16:15, "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation.")

YOU REMEMBER our last lesson ended when a prophet arose in the church at Antioch and foretold that there would be severe famine. The brethren, although poor themselves, collected food and sent it to Jerusalem by the hands of Saul and Barnabas.

This lesson starts when Barnabas and Saul came back to Antioch after their mission had been accomplished, probably around the beginning of the year A. D. 45. With them they brought John, whose surname was Mark, and who was a relative of Barnabas.

At the church at Antioch were certain prophets, and teachers, such as Barnabas and Simeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manan and Saul. These men depended upon the direction of the Holy Spirit, and they fasted and prayed continually. And the Holy Ghost said to them that they should separate Barnabas and Saul from the rest and send them away to preach to other people.

So they fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them. St. Luke tells us, and sent them away. With them went Barnabas' relative, John. So these three, "being sent by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus." Cyprus is an island off the coast of Syria. At Salamis, where Jews were plentiful, they preached in the Jewish synagogues. This city was on the eastern end of the island and the native place of Barnabas, where he and John were known. Some of the people of the island were already Christians, and the fact that they were Amorites relatives and friends gave them an advantage in beginning their work.

Go to Capital

Their next step was Paphos, capital of the island, which was ruled over by Sergius Paulus, a Roman but a man of understanding. He called Barnabas and Saul to him to explain to him the new religion.

Now there was also at Paphos a Jew who claimed to be a magician and sorcerer and called himself Bar-Jesus, which interpreted was Elymas. He was a strong influence in the city, and he strongly opposed Saul and Barnabas and their attempts to interest Sergius Paulus in their teaching. Saul, who at this time is called Paul for the first time, realized how much mischief this man would cause, and "filled with the Holy Ghost, he looked straight at Elymas and said: O full of all subtlety and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?"

"And now, behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season." Immediately a mist rose before Elymas' eyes, which darkened to total blindness so that he went about groping for someone to lead him.

When the deputy, Sergius Paulus, saw this miracle, he believed, being astonished at the doctrine of the Lord.

Paul now has begun to appear as the principal character of the early Christian church. And this is the beginning of many journeys of the first Christian missionaries to carry the Word of God to the heathen.

Rules Against N. C. Theatres In Price Case

RALEIGH—Assistant Attorney General T. Wade Bruton has ruled that theaters giving prizes for drawn numbers were engaging in a lottery, whether or not the purchase of a ticket was necessary for a chance to win.

He made the ruling at the request of Wade A. Gardner, solicitor of the Wilson recorder's court.

Gardner wrote that two theaters were offering prizes for persons registered in their lobbies, whether or not they had bought tickets of admission. He said the drawn number was announced in the theaters, and on the street before the theaters, and that the person whose number was drawn had two minutes in which to reach the stages and claim the prize.

Bruton said the state supreme court, in ruling on the state's anti-lottery law, had held that:

"The ingredient of chance is, obviously, the evil principles which the law denounces and will eradicate, however it may be clothed, or however it may conceal itself in a fair exterior. It is by this means that cupidity is solicited or an appeal is made to avarice, for if fortune be propitious, or chance should favor him, either in his selection as to the winner of its favor or in the mere turn of a wheel, or the throw of the dice, or the fall of the coin, a return of value is expected for the small consideration or trivial price paid for the privilege of being thus favored."
