Auditorium Packed At Lake To Hear Prominent Speaker (Continued from page 1) on the spacious stage, usually reserved for the speakers and choir only. The crowd had gathered fully an hour before time set for the services to begin and occupied the time singing hymns and revival tunes. Many of those who come here annually said only once before was there ever such a crowd. That was the early days when the late George R. Stuart spoke and raised a great missionary offering of $100,000. Another interesting Sunday event, which was held as a new adventure in Southern interracial cooperation was the dedication of a recent Negro Center to be used as a social and religious education building for the Negroes who spend every summer here in various capacities. A number of white and colored leaders came from a distance. Bishop Paul B. Kern, of Nashville, Tenn., and Bishop Hoyt M. Dobbs, of Jackson, Miss., and the Rev. Lucius Pitts, Negro director of the center, took part in the dedicatory ritual. A program of spirituals by the Negro congregation, special music by Mrs. Elizabeth Aldridge Henderson, whose father, Dr. F. S. Aldridge, of Durham, donated the piano, greetings from white friends and responses by the Negro leaders composed the program. Dr. E. C. Peters, white president

Better Business Reported In All Fields Of Activity (Continued from page 1) came, which so taxed long distance facilities. The bus company reports more travel during the past few weeks than has ever been noted since the establishment of the line. There are now two extra buses into Knoxville, that formerly stopped in Gatlinburg, and another bus going into Chattanooga direct from here. While the season at Lake Junaluska in July about equaled that of last year, the officials state that August gives promise of bringing larger crowds to this church center than has ever been noted. August opened with a record breaking number of golfers on the course of the Waynesville Country Club, and the club with its 25 room addition filled with guests, many planning to stay for weeks. Real estate firms state that there has never been a greater demand for houses to rent and for longer periods than the current season. Public eating places are serving more meals than in many years. Business at the First National Bank has hit a new high record, with resources over $1,300,000. Traffic officer Norman Caldwell said there were an increasing number of cars almost daily. SHEETS FOLDED DIFFERENT PLACES Sheets folded occasionally in different places when ironed will last longer. of Paine College, of which institution, the present director and many of the Negro leaders here are graduates, spoke briefly, lauding the spirit of fellowship and cooperation which had prompted the erection of the building where Negro residents would have their own religious and recreational. He praised the late John Wesley Gilbert, Negro educator, an alumnus of Paine college, whose name the new unit bears. Mr. C. C. Women Rush Hosiery Counters As U. S. Refuses Japan Silk To Enter Country

People Are Urged To Can All Types Of Food This Year

(Continued from page 1) to the officials of the Hazelwood Mutual Cannery, and authorities in view of circumstances are urging the people to can vegetables, fruits and pickles. They predict that foodstuffs will not only be higher, but in some cases certain items will not be available. Due to the number of men being inducted into the service the government will use from 35 to 40 per cent more canned foods than formerly, and to supply this the canneries throughout the country will have to sacrifice other orders to keep the government contracts. In fact authorities are predicting that the output of canneries throughout the country will fall off 50 per cent from last year. This shortage is due to a number of reasons, namely, the unfavorable growing season, the lack of labor to harvest and properly care for the crops, and the effect these conditions have on the increase of prices of the green vegetable market.

Hosiery departments in Waynesville having been doing a rushing business since last week-end, when news came that no more silk from Japan could be shipped into this country. Some merchants reported stocks almost exhausted, while others had anticipated their needs and were heavily stocked. "Better than Christmas Eve," one merchant said, while another reported most customers were buying hose by the box, with one sale going to $16. Almost all sales were for two or more pairs, it was said. One merchant said it wasn't a matter of selling the hose, it was just getting the size, with colors being ignored in many instances. Hosiery manufacturers are trying to work out methods of making cotton and rayon hose. This procedure will require several months, according to a hosiery jobber here yesterday.
