

Rambling Around

By W. CURTIS RUSS
Bits of this, that and the other picked up here, there and yonder.

Verlin Campbell has a lot of homely wit and humor. The other day before the Rotary Club he kept them laughing. He had notes on his speech, but after getting started good, he discarded his notes and "went to town." His impressions.

The most talked-of subject right now is daylight saving time. The only difference under the new time is that the sun is an hour later.

Two Hazelwood business men have taken a sudden liking to flying. On their first trip they caught the "fever" and can't seem to get over the spell.

R. V. Erk owns a Methodist church in Pennsylvania. There is no catch to that one. The beautiful building was given the town by an uncle, with the understanding that when the congregation ceased to use it as a church it would go to the estate. The church is not in use, as a larger one was recently built, and the old church, in excellent state of repair, is in Mr. Erk's name.

If you see Wayne Corpening of the county agent's office up a tree, hanging by his feet, and taking pictures don't call the police or fire department. He has been handed a difficult assignment of getting some farm pictures for publication.

Women should take extreme care in keeping their money in their purse from powder and perfume. The other day a man in a local department store was handed a highly perfumed ten-dollar bill. He sniffed, and handed it back to the cashier, saying, "Lady, that money is OK, but that odor will penetrate my clothes, and would call for too much explaining when I got home." The customer was given 10 odorless ones.

Someone who had more time than we believe we have, worked out the following, as a definite example that the English language is really difficult:

If water you freeze is frozen,
Is the maiden you squeeze then squeezed?

If a thing you break is broken,
Would a thing you take be token?

If the plural of child is children,
Would the plural of wild be wild-dren?

If a number of cows are cattle,
Would a number of bows be battle?

If a person who spends is a spendthrift,
Would a person who lends by a lendthrift?

Dr. Tom Stringfield has one of the most interesting collections of Cuban pictures made during the Spanish-American War. Dr. Tom was in Cuba for six months.

Although the pictures are over 40 years old, they are still good, with but a few showing signs of being over two score years old.

One of the most interesting to the average person, is a group of naked Cuban children.

Another of Dr. Tom with a long cigar is excellent of him but quite a Harlie Trantham and two daughters and their husbands, of Chicago, are spending several weeks with friend and relatives on Fines Creek.

Three employees of Grace Lumber Mill were seriously injured when the truck in which they were riding plunged off a fifty foot embankment into Fines Creek last week.

The men were rushed to the Haywood County Hospital for treatment while the truck in which they were riding was completely demolished.

The fourth annual singing convention was held last Sunday at the Salvation Army Citadel in Maple Spring Gap.

Adjutant Cecil Brown and Captain Thelma Colton had charge of the program which centered around various choirs and quartets.

After a picnic lunch was served a special offering was taken which amounted to $50.000.

Adjutant Brown announced that next year on the first Sunday in August the convention would be held again, as it has been for the last four years.

contrast to the form of tobacco he now prefers.

And speaking of pictures, about the best collection of pictures on nature study taken by an amateur, is the group made by Rosemary Herman. Not only are the pictures good, but the titles which Rosemary gave them are as good if not better than the pictures. She certainly is a talented girl.

You do not have to tell the world what your character is. It speaks for itself.

Even Dairy Cows Need Vitamin "A" Cousin Of Morton

The dairy cow also needs Vitamin "A" just as much as members of the farm family, says John A. Arey, Extension dairy specialist at N. C. State College.

Vitamin "A" is recognized as an important constituent of livestock feed, Arey says, adding that this fact is especially true in the case of dairy cows because the vitamin must be fed in order for it to be present in the milk.

An experiment was begun at State College in 1930 to determine the amounts of soybean hay, locally grown alfalfa hay and local yellow dent corn that are necessary to supplement cottonseed meal and rulls, so as to provide adequate Vitamin "A" for young growing beef cattle.

When 20 per cent of the ration consisted of soybean hay and 50 per cent of cottonseed meal and hulls, enough Vitamin "A" was supplied to assure good growth. Soybean hay proved distinctly superior to locally grown alfalfa hay. The soybean usually was of No. 1 quality; the alfalfa had graded No. 3 and contained grasses. Yellow dent corn proved so good a source of the important nutrient as alfalfa.

In the course of 11 years these experiments have shown with convincing results that cows with calf, yearling steers and heifers can be fed large amounts of cottonseed meal and hulls when sufficient Vitamin "A" is supplied, Arey adds. While this test was conducted with beef animals, the results apply with equal force to dairy cows insofar as the Vitamin content of the feed How'd you like to catch a list of fish—without hook, line and sinker? J. B. Pinson, Cross Hill, S. C., tells the yarn of the ranks high in the Carolina News Gazette.
