> The new 65-ton silo was completed recently at a cost of $226. The farm has 17 acres of crop land.

The 33 fat steers in the lot lined up as if on parade as the tour drove onto the property.

Of particular interest was the loading platform, which fits into one of the stall doors and permits loading of cattle on a truck direct from the barn. The cost was placed at 75 cents, by Perry Trull, manager of the farm. The platform was built of scrap lumber.

The thoughts of 4,000 pounds of ice cold watermelons at the Joe Rose farm at Balsam hastened the tour to the last scheduled stop.

"On top of the world" in the haze of the Balsams, the group saw prize Aberdeen-Angus cattle, against a background of a modern barn, and workmen pouring concrete on a 70-ton silo.

Mr. Rose has already used a car of lime on his 80-acre farm, and has another car on order, as he is preparing to put 65 acres in

Mr. Rose has 2 car loads of steers which he is fattening for the Baltimore Steer Show. This will be the first time that any cattle south af the Mason and Dixon line, has been shown at the Baltimore show, and the fact that these cattle are from Haywood is worth a lot, it was said.

Of special interest was the calf creep, where shelled corn and mo-

The different kinds of time in the country is getting Gertie goofy. This week I motored to Atlanta to meet my husband who arrived on the streamlined train that leaves Miami every third day in the afternoon and arrives in Atlanta the next morning at 7:12 Central time or 8:12 Atlanta time, or 9:12 Day Light Saving time. Afto head straight for Balsam and Waynesville in the mountains. where nature's air conditioning system really works,

Mr. Rose takes the position that Haywood is the ideal place for breeding cattle, and then have them "finished" in the grain growing

While the count was being made of those from each township, Mr. Lynn announced that Mr. Rose was working 100 per cent with 4-H club boys in getting purebred stock in all sections of the county.

The AAA committeeman, D. J. Boyd, Sam Ferguson and Thurman Davis were presented to the crowd, with the explanation that it was through their committee that Haywood farmers received $63,000 in soil conservation payments last

A number of guests were presented, including A. L. Freedlander, president of the Dayton Rubber Manufacuring Company, who invited all to attend the formal opening of the new plant on the night of the 23rd,

At the stroke of five, the 4,000 pounds of watermelons, which were donated by Joe Rose, went under the knife, and the "face washing" began, and the fifth annual farm tour came to a close,

Wherever you saw a group of women, it was safe to bet that in the center was Miss Mary Margaret Smith, home demonstration agent. While the tour this year wasn't designed so much for the women, they did get in many good pointers, and the association must have been profitable judging from the expressions on their faces during

It had been a long day, but a most satisfactory tour in every way. Every one seemed pleased and well repaid for the time spent.

One thing that was noticed in every locality, and at every stop, was that elaborate preparations are underway for the Livestock Show in September.

Yest, it was a grand tour—and it looks like a BIG Livestock Show in the making.

Federal Insurance Now Available On 1942 Wheat Crops

Farmers of Haywood county can now get insurance on their 1942 wheat crop against all unavoidable hazards, such as drought, insects, fire, floods, plant diseases, storms, hail, winds and other unexpected

ing in the army, for he caddied at the Waynesville golf course, the whole time he was here. Two other former caddies having weekend furloughs and who are now in Uncle Sam's army at Fort Jackson are P. F. C. Paul Mull and P. F. C. Charles Curtiss. Our boys look mighty fine in their khaki uniforms and brass buttons,

Over at Joe Rose's farm last week, I met up with the farm tour, I don't know much about cattle, especially Aberdeen-Angus the kind Rose had, but I liked being with the farmers and their families. They are the backbone of Haywood county and I like the way the editors of this paper favors and fosters the farmers' interest where ever it it is possible for him to do so, for he realizes that what helps rural residents helps everyone. I am glad to see the farmer really being appreciated, for they have had a tough row to hoe. Mr. Russ has had a lot to do with the better farm program in Haywood county.

The log cabin home of the Roses' has truly blossomed like a rose under Mrs. Rose's magic flair for color line. Most girls who marry men from other parts of the country forget about bringing their husbands down to the old home place, but not Mrs. Rose. They have put a lot of money in their farm and home and it has helped this section of North Carolina, If more Haywood county girls would follow Mrs. Rose's example more of our land in these parts, would blossom like a rose!

This insurance is offered by the federal government through the AAA program. The insurance guarantees 75 per cent of normal yield as set up under the agricul-tural conservation program.

Any person growing wheat in 1942 who is interested in insurance on this crop is asked to call at the county agent's office on or before August the 30th. No application for insurance will be taken after that date.

This type of insurance does not require cash outlay since a wheat note plan has been developed for paying this insurance. That is to say the cost of the insurance can be deducted from the 1942 farm payment.

The cost of the wheat insurance will be for the most part for farmers of this county, one-half bushel of wheat per acre. This depends upon the market value of wheat on July 25, 1942.
