

ARMISTICE

DAY

BECAUSE there are words like Freedom, and Democracy, we celebrate Armistice Day. We celebrate it to honor those who were willing to lay down their lives in order to preserve these words. We celebrate it, not as a victory or an achievement, but as a tribute to those who fought for their beliefs. But though it is a day of homage and thanksgiving, it is also a day of firm resolve. For, what kind of justice would it be, if while we celebrate these Armistice Days, we lose what they fought to preserve? So let us, this Armistice Day, November 11, 1941, reverently pay our deepest respect and gratitude to those who fought, but just as reverently resolve to protect and keep what they fought for—those words again—Freedom and Democracy.
