

Higher Prices Are Likely For Foods

Washington.—Increased income for farmers and higher food costs for consumers during the next year were forecast recently by the agriculture department.

Each of a series of outlook reports on major items of foodstuffs presented the same general pattern—ample or record supplies, but with a rising consumer demand indicating relatively high prices.

One report said livestock producers could look for the "largest cash income from the sale of meat animals in over 20 years" as a result of the "strongest consumer demand conditions in a number of years and continued large government purchases of pork and lard."

Meat production in 1942 is expected to be the largest on record, the department said, with both cattle and hogs moving to market in exceptionally large numbers in the same season for the first time in many years.

Some other statements in the report:

Favorable prices for wool may curtail marketing of sheep and lambs in the next few months with a resulting upturn in these prices.

Prices for eggs, up in recent weeks despite huge market supplies are expected to stay high because of large purchases for England.

Prices of chicken and turkey also have advanced, but not as much as other meats. Higher costs of feeds for poultry flocks may tend to offset price gains, the department commented.

Price-supporting loans ordered by Congress were credited with maintaining domestic wheat prices at relatively high levels despite a near-record world supply and domestic surplus of this chief bread-grain.

Officials said some 300,000,000 bushels of this year's crop already had been placed under the government loan and this probably would increase to 400,000,000.

CHURCHES

H. G. Hammett, Pastor. The general theme for Bible study Sunday morning at 9:45 is, "Christ and His Church." Such questions as, what is the church?; who inaugurated the church?; what authority has the church?; what is the meaning of the church to you?; etc., faces those who would know God's truth. If humanity realized fully what the church is no one would ignore or criticize the church which Christ died to establish.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

At eleven o'clock at the Methodist church the pastor will preach the first of a series of their sermons leading up to Christmas on the suggestive words from the lips of Jesus, "If I had come." The other two messages on this subject will be presented on the following Sunday.
