Pageant At Methodist Church Impressive Event

The pageant, "Dark Hours of History," which was presented at the First Methodist church on Sunday evening drew a large congregation.

Miss Hester Anne Withers directed the presentation of the scenes depicting the dark hours of history, beginning with the days before Christ, and closing with the darkness which prevails today.

The second scene portrayed the death of Christ, which was followed by the resurrection morn. Each scene showed the light that comes after the dark hours.

In the third scene was shown the crumbling of the Roman empire and the death of all culture except that of the Christian religion. In the fourth scene the dark hours of Valley Forge were given, with the significance of its meaning which was not confined to America, but was a spirit of democracy that was felt in other countries.

Then 1917 and 1918 were given in news flashes, which gave a complete picture of the darkness of that hour closing again with the light of Armistice Day.

The closing scene brought the present dark hour, leaving the thought of the light that would shed over the world as the shadows were lifted.
