

Draft Delinquents Urged To Report During This Month

A vigorous effort is being made during this month to have all delinquent and suspected delinquents report to their local boards to have charges of delinquency removed, it has been announced by the Waynesville draft board.

Those who voluntarily report to their local boards during the month of January, will be allowed to comply with their obligations, but those who fail or refuse to do so will find that their names have been reported to the department of justice for prosecution. A fine of $10,000 or five years imprisonment, or both, is the penalty facing a person convicted of delinquency under the selective service system.

To further clarify the requirements, General Metts, state director, has emphasized the following points:

1. Every person who was required to register under any of the six Presidential proclamations which have heretofore been issued, except those in the 46-65 year age group, must have in his personal possession at all times a valid notice of Classification in addition to his registration certificate.

2. Upon request, every person required to carry a notice of classification must submit his notice to any law enforcement officer, representatives of the secretary of state, the secretary of the treasury, the attorney general, or any official of the national or state headquarters of selective service, any member of a local appeal board, any government appeal agent, or any other official designated by the director of selective service.

3. Every registrant between the ages of 18 and 45 should keep his local board notified of any change of address so that he may be sure that he receives his mail at all times. The local board will have discharged its duty and fully complied with the regulations if it mails official notices to the registrant at his last known address.

Gentiles Fill Polish Ghetto 'Vacancies'

German soldiers herd before them a number of men from an unknown town in Poland. It matters little whether they are gentile or Jew. They are on their way to the ghetto at Warsaw to fill vacant quarters left by the Nazis systematic extermination of Jews. The fate that awaits these new inhabitants is known only to the Nazis. The photo, received in London through a neutral source, was passed by the censors. (Central Press) and the registrant is presumed by law to receive such notices. Therefore, it becomes most important for the registrant to see that his local board has on file his correct address at all times.

4. Every person who is required to carry a notice of classification and who does not now have one should report immediately to his local board and obtain the required form. If a notice of classification heretofore issued has been lost, the registrant in question should apply to his local board for a duplicate.

5. Every person who was required to register under either one of the six registrations and who has not done so should immediately report to his local board and offer to register. Persons who are otherwise delinquent are urged to do the same thing. Those who remain delinquent after February 1, 1943, will run the risk of prosecution.

6. Any person who knows that another is delinquent, or who has reason to suspect that he is, should report that fact to the local board having jurisdiction over the suspected delinquent's residence.
