When 30 Seconds ... =7.000 000 Vinutes

If everyone who uses the telephone talked just 30 seconds less on each local call, the aggregate saving in time for our war-busy equipment would be about 7,000,000 minutes each average working day or over 13 years.

That's important time-saving these days when telephone lines are so crowded with calls, including military and government calls that help fight the war.

Won't you try to shorten your local calls-not just 30 seconds-but all that's possible? It will help a lot, too, if you can manage to make fewer local calls.

When life hangs by a wire!

BLUE-WHITE light blazes down on the tense little group. . . . A suction machine hums quietly. . . . Skilful fingers poise an electric knife. . . . A human life depends on the even flow of electric power.

Electric equipment of many kinds serves the modern hospital. Busy doctors and nurses use it every day for diagnosis and treatment, without even pausing to think of the constant supply of electricity that runs it.

But electric power isn't automatic. The hard-working men and women of America's electric companies are the folks who have made it dependable.

They've made it plentiful, too-so that America's war plants have far more power than those of any other nation. And they've made it cheap - so that the average American home enjoys twice as much electricity for the same money it paid about 15 years ago.

These are the results of practical be ness management under public regulation - part of the system of business freedon in which millions of Americans have pal their faith and their savings.
