Pfc. Joe Heatherly Home On 9-Day Furlough

Private First Class Joe Heatherly, son of Mrs. Aulzy Heatherly, of the Pigeon section, is spending a nine-day furlough in the county visiting his mother.

Pfc. Heatherly has been in the service for the past seven months. He was inducted at Camp Croft and was transferred from there to Fort Jackson.

Prior to his entering the service Pfc. Heatherly was engaged in farming at the Springdale School.

Cpl. Glenn Reeves Spends Furlough In County

Cpl. Glenn Reeves, who is stationed at Tomah, Wis., recently spent a furlough of several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Reeves, of Cove Creek.

Cpl. Reeves has been in the service since October, 1942. He was inducted at Fort Dix, N. J., and from there was transferred to Miami. From the latter he was sent to his present post. He is attached to the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Cpl. Reeves is a brother to Pfc. John Boone Reeves who is now serving in Africa.

In Missouri

Then he yells - BOMBS AWAY!

 BONDS BUILD FORTRESSES FOR FREEDOM!

To THE boy beside him, this Boeing Fortress pilot ranks with Superman.

One look at the instrument panel and you feel the same way. It's hard to believe that ordinary mortals could ever master the maze of dials, buttons, levers and switches required to fly and fight a thirty-ton bomber.

But young Americans are doing it with deadly efficiency. (Ask Adolf, Benito or Tojo.) And they don't learn their jobs just by reading a book. It takes intensive training and practical experience to produce the bomber teams who risk their lives together.

The electric power business is like that. You can't make kilowatt-hours with theories. You've got to learn how — by growing up in the business.

That's the way most electric company men got their start. It's the American way. Do a better job and you get better jobs to do.

The system is simple, but it works.

It works so well that America's big peacetime industries became great war machines overnight.

It works so well that the electric companies under business management were able to push power production up and up to supply war plants with far more electric power than any nation has ever known before — and at low rates.

The same business system that is helping to win the war today will also enrich the peace — when air freighters are delivering radios and refrigerators — instead of block-busters!
