Your axe can lick the Axis

Some fight with guns.

Some fight with axes.

If you are handy with an axe, you can get in your best blows at the Axis by cutting pulpwood and chestnut acidwood. More of both are urgently needed. The shortage is acute. The government is urging every man who can cut even a few cords to do so.

Keep This Mill Running Full

The full output of every pulpmill and chestnut extract plant is required to meet wartime demands. We need much more pulpwood than is coming in now if we are to keep our mill running to capacity. If you have wood you can cut, get in touch with us at once.
