

Miss Mary Ruth Liner Becomes Bride Of Charles Guy Reed

Miss Mary Ruth Liner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Liner, Jr., of Dellwood Road, became the bride of Charles Guy Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Reed, of Sylva, in a candlelight ceremony Saturday afternoon, October 16, at the Maple Grove Methodist church.

The Rev. C. O. Newell, of Bryson City, former pastor of the church, officiated, using the double ring ceremony. He was assisted by the Rev. L. C. Stevens, pastor of the church.

The church was decorated with floor vases of white gladioli, hydrangea and dahlias, against a background of autumn leaves, interspersed with seven branched candelabra holding cathedral tapers.

Prior to the taking of the vows, a program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Fred Campbell, pianist, which included, "My Heart At Thy Sweet Voice", "I Love You Truly", "Serenade" by Schubert. The traditional marches were used for the processional and recessional.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a two-piece ensemble of light blue wool crepe, fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and three quarter sleeves. Her accessories were in navy and her corsage was of yellow rosebuds. Her only ornament was a cameo necklace, a family heirloom.

Miss Sara Queen was maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a dress of dusty gold silk crepe fashioned on lines similar to that of the bride, and her accessories were in black. Her corsage was of Talisman roses.

Earl Reed, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were; Cpl. Charles J. Sheehan, cousin of the bride, and James Harly Noland, of Waynesville.

Mrs. Liner, mother of the bride and Mrs. Reed, mother of the bridegroom, wore dresses of navy blue silk crepe, and their corsages were of pink rosebuds.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. For the occasion the residence was decorated in arrangements of white gladioli, dahlias and yellow chrysanthemums. A lace cloth covered the bride's table, which was centered by a three tier wedding cake. Mrs. Meta Brandlett, aunt of the bride, presided at the punchbowl. She was assisted in serving by the bride's cousin, Mrs. Tommy Robertson, Mrs. Wade McDaniel, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Edward Glavich, and Miss Wanda Hicks, of Bryson City.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Reed left for a short wedding trip. They plan to reside in Sylva upon their return.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Western Carolina Teachers College. While in college, Mrs. Reed was a member of the Western Carolina Players, the Big Sister Club, the Y. W. A., secretary and treasurer of the Woman's House Government, vice president of the Association of Childhood Education and treasurer of the Future Teachers of America Club. Mr. Reed was a member of the Western Carolina Players, Future Teachers of America Club, Business Education Club, and editor of the 1942 Yearbook, the Cata-mount.

Mrs. T. V. Davis Has Two Sons Serving In Army

Mrs. T. V. Davis, of Hazelwood, has two sons in the U. S. Army.

Cpl. Joe S. Davis, who is an airplane mechanic, was inducted into the service at Fort Jackson in 1942, and received his training at Miami Beach, Fla., Weatherford, Okla., and Keesler Field, Miss. From the latter place he was sent overseas.

Private Charles Ray Davis, of the Quartermaster Corps, is now stationed at Camp Young, Calif. He volunteered for service in the spring of 42 and was inducted at Fort Bragg. He recently spent a furlough here.

Schoolroom Misbehavior

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

"Our boy is eight. His marks in school have been very poor in both the first and second grades, due principally according to his teacher to the fact he is not attentive and does not behave well. He likes school never wants to miss a day, but he takes it all as a big joke talks most of the time, teases other children and is always clowning to make them laugh.

"Both my husband and I have encouraged our boy in extra reading, and arithmetic and spelling at home but he wants to clown continually and when reprimanded reverts to an attitude of revolt. As an example, when reading he will know the words in a particular sentence but will change them to something else to get a laugh. Also when making sevens he will loop the first part down as low as the last part and when asked why he does this will say he likes to have his sevens down on their knees praying. Then too he will make faces in the sixes and nines and all sorts of curls and fancy marks on other figures. When adding or subtracting just any number that comes to his mind is good enough for him.

"It is our understanding that you have reading helps, spelling helps, and sheets of the basic addition and subtraction facts to be learned by heart. Please send them to me in the three self-addressed envelopes enclosed."

The Doctor's Reply

I am enclosing the bulletins you desire to with their aid you can help that lad do better work in arithmetic, reading, and spelling he will be more attentive at school and clown less when he shouldn't. I wish his teacher would also realize this fact. Then she would not complain to you about his inattention and behavior at school. It will certainly do no good for you to lecture him at home about his lagging at school.

You are wrong in assuming that he knows the right word or number always when he gives the wrong one. He supposes he must answer something; so he does, whether he knows the right answer or not. Encourage him to say, "I do not know."

He has discovered that by clowning he can escape the pain of feeling he is failing. It is one way in which he can feel superior. No doubt he can even protect himself from you and his father when he supposes you will be angry at him and scold him for his mistakes.

You might do him more good if you would not bother him so much at home about his lessons but would try to lead him to work at some things there are in books at which he can enjoy success. Be sure you never allow yourself to get the least bit angry at any mistakes in learning he makes, but to celebrate his successes with him.

Why not capitalize his sense of humor? It is a choice trait when used in the right place. At favorable moments, relax and enjoy his creative drawings and animated figures. With tact and patience then you might be able to lead him to see there is a time for clowning and a time for serious work, and that it is not well to mix the two.

Methodist District Missionary Group To Meet Monday

The Waynesville District Missionary Institute of the Methodist Churches will hold a one-day meeting at the First Methodist church here on Monday, the 1st, according to an announcement made by Rev. W. L. Hutchins, superintendent of the district.

Outstanding speakers representing the Board of Missions of the church will be here to address the meeting, which will open at 10:00 o'clock.

The morning will be given over to the messages brought by the visiting officials, and the afternoon devoted to group meetings.

All pastors, district stewards, treasurers of each charge, representatives from the Woman's work and church school superintendents, are expected to be present. Lunch will be served by the women of the Waynesville church.

Pvt. Charlie L. Wells Now In Greenland

Private Charlie L. Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Wells, of Canton, route 3, is now serving in Greenland. He entered the service in December, 1942, and has been at his present post for the past three months. He was inducted at Fort Jackson and from there sent to Fort Eustis, Va.

From Fort Eustis he was transferred to Boston and then overseas. At the time he entered the service he was employed by the Dunce Mill in Greenville, S. C., where his wife, the former Miss Marguerite McCombs is now employed.

Pvt. W. W. Caldwell Returns To Post

Private William Wilson Caldwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Caldwell, of Pigeon, has returned to his post after spending a 14-day furlough here with his parents.

Pvt. Caldwell is serving in the infantry and was inducted at Fort Jackson. He took his basic training at Camp Hood, Tex., and is now stationed at another camp in that state. He is a graduate of the Bethel high school and made an outstanding record in the vocational agricultural department.
