Spring's Coming

WHEN CIRCUS TROUPERS who winter in Florida start brushing up on their act, it's a sure sign that King Winter is ready to abdicate. Here the Wallendas, tight-rope artists, teach their daughters, Caria, 8, and Maria, 3, the art that made them famous. (International)

In England

WRIGHT, son of Mr. and Mrs. of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Mull, of Waynesville, is now serving in England, according to a message recently received by his mother. Pfc. Mull left here with Company H, National Guard unit, and was first stationed at Fort Jackson and from there sent to Fort Benning, Ga. From the latter he was transferred to Camp Blanding, Fla., and then to Camp Forrest, Tenn. From Camp Forrest he was sent to Camp Atterbury, Ind., and then to New York and overseas. Before entering the service Pfc. Mull was employed at the Waynesville Country Club.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Claud D. Moody, of Quinlontown, announce the birth of a daughter on March 23rd at their home.

A WAC was driving the jeep for the first time and became so engrossed in the passing scenery that she failed to see the supply truck ahead. At the base hospital, the doctor asked the nurse: Doctor—Did you hold a glass to her face to see if she was still breathing? Nurse—Oh, yes, and she opened one eye, gasped and reached for her powder puff.

You can never tell what's behind either a veil or a compliment.
