Thinks Of Others

SGT. ROBERT GILLILAND, who is serving in the China-Burma-India theater and a group of his buddies have organized informally to help some of the dirty and poorly clothed children they are seeing on their tour of duty in the Far East. They have banded together to write their families not to send cigarettes and candy to them, but instead to get clothes for small girls. In fact they want complete outfits. As Sgt. Gilliland wrote they feel it is time "for us gallant fighting men to make some sacrifice for the home fronts." He has written his family here of the dirty children, and underfed boys and girls that are seen on the streets in the areas. He writes that he thinks of his own small daughter, Patsy, 21-months-old, at home and it makes him want to do something for those about him. Above is a picture of the child from that section.

Some Questions and Answers About The CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

By S. A. JONES, Secretary
Have you said to yourself, "What's wrong with our Chamber of Commerce?" Have you wondered what it does and what it does not do—and why? There is nothing really wrong with our Chamber of Commerce or with those who run it—as far as wanting and endeavoring to accomplish things through its channels—things that should come through its sources—for the benefit of all. Mostly, we believe it is the fact that people are not "Chamber of Commerce-conscious" and of what it is and the principles it stands for. It would like to do many beneficial things and endeavors to do them, but it can accomplish very little without the means, and cooperation of all. That must come from the people of our town and county. Your Chamber of Commerce is an essential necessity, and few realize the great need for it. It belongs to each one of us, but it must have the cooperation, the interest and support of all our citizens to make it a growing organization of which to be proud. It deserves and is definitely a "MUST" on our list of community interests. You must belong to it and it to you, to carry through the work intended for it. Your Chamber of Commerce is an organization that, with the cooperation of everyone, should be most instrumental in bringing in to our community greater industries, more agriculture, better projects, recreational facilities for all; to function always as an information bureau—that it constantly does, and through the Chamber of Commerce our tourist trade, interested business and industries, are informed from year to year of the things we do have to offer. If it were not through this medium a great many would not know that we are here and what we can offer—and so far it has been mostly climate, scenery and water, but we sincerely hope with the cooperation and interest of all concerned, that we will begin to tell them truthfully that we have many things of interest and diversion to offer the public and to keep them contented while they are in our midst. Our tourist trade increases our expansion and steady growth through rentals, sales and purchases—from every grocery to department stores, from the farmers to the drug stores, from filling stations to the collection plates, and in real estate, from lands, farms, houses to livestock, and helps almost every person, directly or indirectly. There are few who do not receive some benefit from every family or group of people and individuals who select this community in which to spend some time, returning again and again, often buying and building

Cpl. Ben N. Gaddy Promoted To Sergeant

Cpl. Ben N. Gaddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gaddy, of Jones Farm, has recently been promoted to sergeant, according to information received by his parents. He is serving with an infantry division in combat against the Japs and has been in the army for the past three years. His one daughter, Miss Eula Beatrice Gaddy, resides at Lake Junaluska. Homes and businesses in our community. We also should be grateful and show our own appreciation and initiative in improving what we have. It has often been stated that the tourist trade is our greatest "crop," and brings millions to this whole western section of the country. The Chamber of Commerce brings in this crop, more than any other organization, but to do that, too, they must have the interest and support of every citizen. Be conscious of your Chamber of Commerce—back it and work with it—serve it as it is always ready to serve you.

Better—or Just as Good?

MOST of us aren't satisfied with buying—or growing or manufacturing—something that's "just as good." We want something better. And, in most cases, that something better comes through competition. For competition—real competition—is something besides two people making, or offering for sale, the same goods or services. It involves a lot more. And anybody who serves the public prospers because he has something better to offer—whether it's quality, prices, service, or just a clean appearance and a pleasant smile. Real competition doesn't come from punitive taxes, or subsidies, or any other sort of horse-race handicapping to make everybody in business start even. For it isn't equality that's needed; it's the inequalities that are the true measure of progress.

Real competition is the kind that encourages the manufacturer, the farmer, or business man to get his quality up, his costs down, and to develop new things his customers want. It's this kind of competition that produces something better rather than something just as good—that insures to the public a steady increase in the value it gets for its money.
