Mrs. Underwood Receives Letter About Son

Mrs. Rufus Underwood has received a letter from the captain of the company in which her son, Pvt. Claude Underwood, was serving at the time he was killed in action on July 11, 1944.

Excerpts from the letter say: "I knew your son well. He was in our company for three years and he performed his duty well, both in garrison and on the field of battle. We kept his men supplied with weapons and ammunition as well as articles of clothing all through the campaign and at the last during the heaviest enemy raids when many of his friends lost their lives he met death before medical aid could reach him, many of his friends were present and paid their last respects.

"Your son did his duty as he was called upon to do it, and he died when we were hardest hit. He was given a military funeral with his comrades who died with him."

Pvt. Underwood entered the service on September 10, 1942, and was inducted at Fort Bragg. He was further trained at Camp Wolters, Tex., and Fort Ord, Calif., before being sent to the Hawaiian Islands where he served almost two and one half years before being sent to Japan. At the time he entered the service he was employed as a carpenter by the Junaluska Supply Company. He was posthumously awarded the Purple Heart and two citations. Memorial services were conducted for him on October 29 at Raleigh, Cove.

Because the war has cut off supplies of imported fanning materials, acidwood from blight-killed chestnut is a critically important material.

THIS TAKES GOOD MANAGEMENT!

It's a neat feat to navigate a windy corner with a pile of packages and keep skirts down to a modest level.

We're facing a somewhat similar problem during these stormy war years — carrying bigger power loads, higher costs, heavier taxes — and still keeping prices at low pre-war levels.

We're rather proud that electricity hasn't been rationed and hasn't gone up, like so many household necessities. In fact, the average family actually gets about twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 15 years ago.

This takes good management, too.
