How much space should baby chicks have in the Answer: Start 2 chicks to each square foot of floor space and increase the amount of space as the chicks develop, says Prof. Roy Dearstyne, head of the Poultry Department at State College. He explains that young chicks double their weight approximately ever two weeks up to about six week of age. This accounts for the fact that brooder space which is adequate for day old chicks soon becomes inadequate and more space must be provided. Overcrowding is responsible for a great deal of mortality in young birds. When figuring on the space for laying hens, give the Leghorns 312 square feet each and the heavier breeds

Question What is the cost of operating a tractor?

Answer: The average cost of operating small tractors, based on 1943 prices, was 47 cents an famir, medium-sized tractors, 54 cents and large tractors, 67 cents. Thes figures were obtained in several counties in the Coastal Plain area of North Carolina. These costs did not include the wages of the tracfor driver, taxes or sheller charge Variations from average costs for each size group are influenced by size of load and amount of use. The chief items that influence costs are amount of use. The chief items that influence on Is are fuel and depreciation.
