the seven major developments which will shape the destiny of the world in 1945. Dr. Smith is editor of the Chicago Tribune, and has been a million readers. He has been on the program at the University of Wisconsin.

the collapse and disappearance of Germany as a world power. The genius of the German race reached its peak from 1890 when the education, science, music, sociology, and philosophy of the world were by the German contribution.

the escape of the British from the independent world achieved by Canada, Australia, and the Republic of South Africa. The capital of Europe has been Moscow and Russia will not only Europe but also Asia or at least a part of it.

the disappearance of Japan as a world power which he predicted would be of four or five emerging of China as a world power with 450,000,000 people have had the drive and teach fifty million illiterate to read and write and a major war at the same time predicted that T. Pfc. Charles H. Ruff Spends 21 Months On Trinidad Island

Pfc. Charles H. Ruff, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Ruff, of Waynesville, R.F.D. No. 1, has recently spent a 15-day furlough with his parents. He entered the service on November 1, 1944, and was stationed at Camp Croft.

From there he was sent to Camp Wheeler, Ga., and then to Camp George Meade, Md., later to Jackson Barracks, New Orleans. He served 21 months on Trinidad Island, returning to the States in December, 1944. Before entering the service he was employed by the Unagusta Manufacturing Company. He has recently reported to his post at Fort Riley, Kan.

tion which the Soviet had used during the war against Germany. The remainder had been made in Russian plants. He also told of the industrial advantages Russia had for emerging from the conflict and becoming a world leader in the industrial field, since they have oil, iron, coal, lumber and cotton. The only other major item needed in the industrial field is rubber, but they have developed synthetic rubber to a point far ahead of any other nation, right now," he added.

On his fourth point—the downfall of Japan—the speaker told of traveling through that country, and said Japan never had more than a six week's supply of food on hand, and that with the blockade tightening on the supply lines it would be only a short time until hunger would be fighting on the side with the Allies.

"There is no escape for Japan, and she will never again be allowed to have an army, navy or air force," he said.

"Japan will never lead the Orient again. The Orient will control the destiny of tomorrow," he continued.

"We must begin now to get along with China, with its 450,000,000 people. No nation has stronger leadership than China, and the Chinese have proven they can wage long wars, since they are now entering their 9th year against Japan.

"The future of American business is in the Orient, with its billion and a quarter people," he concluded.

Haywood Man Weds English Girl In Impressive Church Ceremony

The following from the South Western Star, of London, dated June 1, 1945, will be of interest to friends and relatives of the bridegroom in this county:

By special license Miss Jean Olive Catherine Mussett, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roberts Mellor Mussett, of Nottingham-road, Wandsworth Common, was married on Monday at the Church of St. Mary Magdalene, Trinity-road, to 2nd Lieut. Albert Kenneth Bramlett, son of Prof. and Mrs. Bramlett, of Brevard College, Brevard, North Carolina. The vicar, the Rev. E. Pierce-Goulding, officiated.

The bride is a Chapham Secondary School girl. She won a scholarship at Belleville Road School. Before going to the Mansions Motor Company, South Wimbledon, about two years ago she was cashier at Jay's Furnishing Company, Chapham Junction. She met the bridegroom nearly two years ago in a friend's home at High Wycombe and they became engaged just before Christmas. Her father, who served in the last World War, has been in the Fire Service for 24 years. At one time he was station officer at Battersea Bridge. During the war he served with the first militia fire service.

Given away by her father, the bride looked charming in a gown of figured satin and lace. Her embroidered net veil was fastened with a headpiece of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of pink roses and trailing fern.

There were three bridesmaids, her cousin, Miss Gloria Gillingham, and her two friends, Miss Margaret Peggy Aldridge and Miss Betty Aldridge. They wore pink silk and net gowns and feather and net gowns and feather and net headpieces. Each carried a bouquet of pink roses and blue delphinium.

The bride's mother wore a duck-egg blue frock with brown accessories.

Hundreds of Different Species of Trees And Plants Add To Beauty of Area

Large Number of Plants and Shrubs Bloom Entire Summer.

The mountains of Western North Carolina are unlike those in the west which are steep, bare, craggy cliffs.

The mountains in this area are practically all covered with some form of tree growth, and there are only a few exceptions where "balds" on some higher points are not covered with trees, and these in most instances, have grass growing on them.

Most of the trees in this area are hardwood, and in the Park area alone there are 137 different species to be found.

The altitude and climate has made it possible for some of the trees to become hundreds of years old—in fact some date back to ancient history, says one forestry expert. He was quoted as saying that some of the trees found in the Park were full grown when Columbus was a baby.

For many years lumbering was carried on extensively in this section, and hundreds of acres of timber lands were cut over, but there remains in the Park area and adjoining lands, thousands of acres of virgin timber, that lend beauty to the country-side.

Records gathered by officials show that there are about six hundred varieties of flowering trees, shrubs and plants that bloom in this area. Most of these bloom before July. Some people have the idea that this country is composed of just streams and mountains, but it is also one of nature's outstanding flower gardens.

While there are hundreds of different types of flowers and plants that bloom here, the most common and the one that visitors seem to enjoy most, because of the contrasting colors and bloom and leaves is rhododendron. This plant begins blooming in June and under normal weather conditions will last all summer. The blooms are of rose color, and the plant grows on the steepest of hills as well as along the banks of streams. Some of the plants attain a height of ten and fifteen feet but the average is about shoulder-high.

Emmett G. Eller, S 1/c (SM), son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Eller, has returned to duty in California after spending a 26-day leave here.
