

Will Boost Production New Bomb

OAK RIDGE, Tenn.—Col. K. D. Nichols, district engineer for the Clinton Engineering Works, had revealed that facilities for production of the atomic bomb are already being expanded.

In his first interview since the military made public its top-drawer secret, Nichols said that the Oak Ridge plant had been given its production schedule in 1942 "and we're right smack on it."

"We were given a job to do," he said. "That job was the development of explosives for the use in war. We are fulfilling that job now, and more plants are being built for the purpose of manufacturing atomic bombs."

Describing the development of the bomb as the "greatest gamble in history," Nichols expressed the opinion that it would be worth the two billion dollars invested because it would "very likely shorten the Pacific war."

He disclosed that the Oak Ridge location was chosen for the bomb production because of the nearness of the Tennessee Valley authority with its unlimited supply of electricity.

"Since the very first bit of ground was broken for the project, Oak Ridge has received top priority for literally everything it needed," Nichols said.

Nichols said that he was in no position to speculate on the possible peacetime application of the newly harnessed energy, but he added:

"I trust that it will be kept right here in the United States."

Given Bronze Star 400 Haywood Men Are Employed At New Bomb Plant

SGT. CLAUDE M. SUTTON, of Salem, N. J., formerly of Haywood county, was recently awarded the Bronze Star medal for meritorious service in combat in Italy, according to information received from the headquarters of the Fifth Army in Italy. He served with the Fifth Army in the 86th Mountain Infantry Regiment, 10th Mountain Division. He is the son of Mrs. Myrtle Sutton of Waynesville, R. F. D. No. 2.

Woman's Society of First Methodist Church To Meet On Tuesday

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church will hold their regular meeting at 3:30 o'clock on Tuesday, August 14, in the Youth Chapel of the church.

A returned missionary from Cuba will be the guest speaker of the afternoon and Mrs. Bonner Ray, president, will preside. All members are urged to attend.

Mrs. W. Gust Enley, of York, S. C., was the guest during the past week of Col. and Mrs. J. Harden Howell, and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Harden Howell, Jr., at Windover.

Mrs. Carl H. Robbins, of Manhattan Beach, Calif., is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Rung. She will be here for an indefinite stay awaiting the return to the States of her husband, who is now serving in the Pacific theatre.

Seared To Death

"Medical relief agencies that were rushed from the neighboring districts were unable to distinguish, much less identify, the dead from the injured," the enemy broadcast said.

"The impact of the bomb was so terrific that practically all living things, human and animals, were literally seared to death by the tremendous heat and pressure engendered by the blast.

"With houses and buildings crushed, including the emergency medical facilities, the authorities are having their hands full in giving every available relief possible under the circumstances."

Radio Tokyo still referred to the atomic missile as merely a "new-type bomb." It said order gradual recovery was being restored in the stricken city.

The Japanese cabinet was called into a special session at the official residence of Premier Kantaro Suzuki yesterday morning to hear a report from its chief secretary, Hisatane Sekomizu, on the raid, Tokyo said.

Jap Prince Killed

The Japanese imperial household ministry announced that Prince Ri Gu, nephew of the head of the former ruling house of Korea, was killed in the raid, while fulfilling his duties as a lieutenant-colonel in the Japanese army.

Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commander of the American strategic air forces in the Pacific, said reconnaissance photographs revealed that fires touched off by the almost unbelievable heat of the bomb leaped block-wide streams and spread into the outskirts.

The city appeared desolate in the photographs. Bridges across seven channels of the Motosu river delta within the city were damaged.

Strangely, the photographs showed no crater. However, Tokyo had reported that the bomb was dropped by parachute and exploded in the air. It was likely that the entire force of the blast was directed horizontally across the city below.

Think Few Escaped
Although the built-up area of Hiroshima came to six and nine-tenths square miles, the city as a whole totalled 12 square miles with a population of 318,000—an average of 26,500 persons per square mile.

Few, if any, of the more than 100,000 persons in the totally-devastated four square miles were believed to have escaped death or injury. The blast alone of the atomic bomb could kill persons within a four-mile range and it was likely that there were many casualties outside the utterly-destroyed section.

Spaatz told newsmen that other Superfortresses were ready to carry more atomic bombs to Japan. Leaflets warning the enemy of his impending doom already were being prepared, he said.

Both Spaatz and his chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Curtis Le May, agreed that if the bomb had been available in 1943 there "might not have had to be any D-day" for an invasion of France.

Spaatz declined comment on the potentialities of the deapson's use in the Pacific, but added:

"One of our few fears in Europe was that the Germans would find a secret weapon like this. We were vitally concerned whether the Germans were ahead of us—not until we reached Berlin did we know that the Nazis were probably two years behind us."

A Washington dispatch said that the U. S. army was going ahead with its plans for an invasion of Japan despite the possibility that the atomic bomb alone might induce Japan to surrender.

Spaatz said that the impact of the single-atomic bomb was equal to a raid of 2,909 Superfortresses.
