Farm Questions and Answers

Question: Will chloropicrin kill thistle in alfalfa?
Answer: Yes, says Howard Garriss, extension plant pathologist, who has tested the material on a field of James Adams near Willow Springs and that of D. C. Worth of Raleigh, both in Wake county. The chemical was applied in the soil around the plants with the hand applicator commonly used by nurserymen in treating plant beds. Garriss says that this method is practical only where there are scattered plants and the soils are in a porous state to allow for the easy injection of the applicator. Where there is a large number of weeds, he recommends treatment with a fire gun.

Question: What is the best means of renovating an old pasture that has been "grazed to death"?
Answer: Since you are in the Coastal Plain, it is best to double cut the sod with a heavy disc to a depth of about 4 inches, and do a thorough job. The carpet grass will come back fast enough. Since you have an average sandy soil, 10 pounds of Dallis grass and 15 pounds of Kobe lespedeza per acre is recommended, or 10 pounds of Dallis grass and 5 pounds of low hop clover.

Question: Can too much lime be applied to soils?
Answer: Yes. State College agronomists suggest that you have an analysis made of the soil in the field where you plan to apply lime and find out how much is needed for the particular crop you wish to grow. Your county agent will tell you how to take the soil sample. Too much lime may cause an increase in certain plant diseases. Certain plant foods may be tied up.

How To Keep Wife Home
A dignified Briton was taking home a pair of his wife's shoes which he had gotten from the shoemaker after they had been repaired. No box or paper was, of course, supplied, so he, slightly embarrassed, was carrying them loose. A man opposite him in the bus watched him closely and said as he got out, "Not going to let her gad about, eh, gov'nor?"

Lions Will Hear Discussion On Commercial Hotel

The Waynesville Lions will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Maples on Walnut Street to discuss the much talked about commercial hotel which has been proposed for Waynesville. Claude Woodard and his committee on Conventions will have charge of the program. Lion Woodard states that he will bring to the club some person who knows the facts about the hotel project.

Last week's meeting featured an illustrated lecture by Dr. Crum, professor of Applied Christianity at Duke University. The speaker showed a large collection of pictures of the beautiful Gothic architectural designs of the Duke buildings. These pictures were made by Dr. Crum and mounted on slides which he projected on the screen. The speaker gave evidence that his hobby of photography afforded pleasure to him and instruction to the members present.

Many out of town Lions attended last week's meeting. There was a good delegation from the Sylva club, and several from the clubs of Florida and Georgia who are summer residents of our town. The president extends a cordial invitation to all visiting Lions to take advantage of this opportunity to make an attendance while absent from their own clubs. Secretary Lloyd Kirkpatrick will see that they get credit for attendance.
