Farmers Warned About Inflation

Extension Service Points Out That Inflation Can Be Disastrous To Farmers.

Inflation, or a runaway price situation in these postwar days because of an unprecedented demand for civilian goods and services, can easily spell disaster for many farmers and their families as they struggle with reconversion problems that come after the war. Farm management specialists of the Extension Service at State College point to the dangers of inflation as outlined by the postwar policy committee of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities in a recent release.

The committee declared: "Any decided rise in prices and wage rates during this period will greatly add to farm costs. . . . When war demands taper off, shortages of farm products are likely to be replaced by surpluses. If prices are allowed to get out of hand now, farm prices may nose-dive while many items of farm expense stay up."

Many farmers still remember what happened after World War I when farm land prices soared. Savings of a lifetime may be lost if price controls are lifted before dangers of a speculative boom are past. Not only farmers, but also returning war veterans may be the victims of exorbitant land prices.

"As rapidly as the war effort permits, the threat of inflation should be tempered by speedy expansion and resumption of production to meet civilian needs," the committee said. "But controls are needed until supplies again are adequate to meet requirements at reasonable prices. Additional controls, particularly to limit and discourage land speculation, are in order."

COOKED A FINE DINNER; THEN THREW IT TO DOG

One lady recently stated that she used to throw her own dinner to the dog most of the time. It made her sick just to look at anything to eat. She was swollen with gas, full of blood, had headaches, felt worn out and was badly constipated. Finally she got INNER-AID and says she now eats everything in sight and digests it perfectly. Bowels are regular and normal. She is enjoying life once more and feels like "some other woman" since taking this New Compound.

INNER-AID contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get INNER-AID Sold by All Drug Stores here in Haywood County.

Jacob Adjusts Personal Relationships

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Aug. 26 is Genesis 32-35, the Memory verse being Eph. 4:32, "Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving each other.")

TWENTY YEARS have passed since our last lesson, and in the meantime Jacob had married two wives, sisters, Leah and Rachel. Jacob had grown rich and was now dissatisfied living with Laban, his father-in-law, and decided to leave.

The angels of God met him and told him to go to the land of his people and to Bethel, where the vision of the ladder appeared to him before. Jacob was afraid of his brother Esau, whom he would now see, because of the great wrong he had done Esau in times past. As a peace offering he sent messengers to his brother telling him where he had been all this time, and saying he had grown rich, having great possessions. The messengers came back to Jacob saying his brother was coming to meet him with 400 men.

Jacob was alarmed at this and divided his people and his flocks and herds into two groups so that if Esau attacked and captured one, the other could escape. Then Jacob prayed to God, a very humble prayer, acknowledging that he had been sinful, saying, "I am not worthy of the least of all the mercies, and of all the truth which Thou hast shewed unto Thy servant. . . . Deliver me, I pray Thee, from the hand of my brother, for I fear him, lest he will come and smite me and the mother with the children." He also reminded the Lord that He had said He would do him good.

Sends Gifts to Esau

He took goats, camels with their colts, she asses and foals and sent them as a present to Esau. He told his servants what they were to say to his brother when they met him. Then he took his two wives, his women servants, and his 11 sons, and passed over the ford Jabbok.

That night, left alone, Jacob wrestled with a man until the breaking of the day. Jacob refused to let the man go until He blessed him, although his opponent touched the hollow of his thigh, putting it out of joint. He received the blessing, and Jacob called the name of the place Peniel, "for I have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved."

Next day came Esau with his 400 men. Jacob arranged his people so that the handmaids and their children were first, Leah and her children after, and Rachel, who was Jacob's best beloved, and her son, Joseph, last. He himself passed over the river to meet his brother and bowed himself to the ground seven times, until he came near his brother.

"And Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, and fell on his neck, and kissed him; and they wept."

Esau apparently held no hatred in his heart for this brother who had been absent so long. If he had not forgotten his wrongs of 20 years ago, he had forgiven them.

After Esau had been made acquainted with his brother's household, he asked Jacob what was meant by all the animals he had met. Jacob explained that they were a present for him Esau said he had enough. He did not need this rich gift, but Jacob insisted that he accept them.

Jacob Again Deceives Esau

Still Jacob did not trust his brother, and when Esau said they would all go on together, he leading with his men, Jacob pleaded that as his women and children were "tender and the flocks and herds with young are with me," he would come on behind, "softly." He really had no intention of going with Esau and so he once more deceived his brother, going in almost the opposite direction. He journeyed to Succoth and there he built a house for himself and booths for his cattle.

The 34th chapter of Genesis concerns Dinah, Leah's daughter, who was taken by Shechem, son of Hamor, the prince of that country, and dishonored. Shechem loved Dinah and wanted to make her his wife. Her brothers, however, were so furious about the matter that they entered the city of Shechem and slew all the male inhabitants, including Shechem and Hamor, and took all their goods and made all the women and children captive.

God again told Jacob to go to Bethel, and He would give him the land he had promised. He told him his name hereafter would be Israel. A little way from Bethel was Ephrath, and there Rachel gave birth to another son, who was named Benjamin. Rachel died at his birth, and Jacob buried her in the way to Ephrath, which is Bethlehem. And Jacob set a pillar upon her grave: that is the pillar of Rachel's grave unto this day.

At last Jacob went to his father, Isaac, shortly before the old man's death. "And Isaac gave up the ghost and died, and was gathered to his people, being old and full of days; and his sons Esau and Jacob buried him."

5 Good Country Tricks for Saving More Used Fats

Right now, the country is facing the worst fat shortage since the war began. To help make up the deficit, the government is depending on the women of America—and particularly our women on farms and in smaller cities.

Every drop of fat is needed to help make battlefield and homefront essentials. So roll up your sleeves and do an all-out job, won't you? Clip this checklist as a reminder.

1. FRIED SALT PORK—with milk gravy. Salt pork yields so much grease, you won't need it all for gravy. Pour the rest into the salvage can.

2. DEEP FAT FRYING—use the fat over and over, but when it's too dark and smelly to use any more, don't forget Uncle Sam wants it!

3. ROASTS AND CHOPS—save all trimmings (scraps from the plates, too.) Keep them in a small bowl; once a week melt them down.

4. SAUSAGES—they're better if you parboil them first. Skim the fat off the cooking water—scrape the fat from the frying pan.

5. CHICKEN SOUP—chill it before you use it. Scoop off the hardened grease (soup tastes better, too!)

When the salvage can is full, take it to your butcher promptly. He will give you 2 red points and up to 4c for every pound of used fat you turn in.

100,000,000 More Pounds of Used Fats Are Needed This Year. Approved by WFA and OPA. Paid for by Industry.
