

Charleston No Longer Hospital Vessels Port

CHARLESTON, S. C.—Charleston has ceased to be a home port for the Atlantic hospital fleet which has brought 74,669 sick and wounded here from Europe since November, 1918.

Brig. Gen. James T. Duke, commanding the port of embarkation, said ships of the fleet hereafter would be routed to New York. Many of them, he added, will be transferred to the Pacific but a few will continue to operate in the Atlantic.

Last of the mercy ships to come to Charleston was the Sennote which arrived with 441 patients from Naples.

The Aleda E. Lutz was scheduled to make port here next week but was directed to head instead for New York.

General Duke said that in the last few weeks only a few actual battle casualties had been among the patients disembarked here. The medical department and the transportation corps, he explained, had made good their promise to return all but non-transportable wounded within 90 days of V. E. day.

NALONS DELIGHT NURSES

NEW YORK—A group of about 150 Army nurses who had not seen an American newspaper in 14 months, arrived in New York from Europe and shuddered with delight when they heard that nylon stockings would be on retail counters within a short time. The nurses, attached to the 170th and 129th General Hospitals, arrived aboard the General Alexander E. Anderson.

Services are held each evening at 8:00 o'clock and the public is cordially welcomed at all services. Classes during the day are being taught by A. R. Holton and J. W. Rount, of Nashville, Tenn., and others.

The Guilty Get The Book From Woman Judge

BY WELAND—Judge Mary B. Grossman, a shy, sweet-faced but ardent feminist, a terror to Cleveland magistrates, gamblers, thieves, alcoholics, social outcasts, wife-beaters, and yes, attorneys.

Celebrating her 21st year on the Municipal Court bench, Judge Grossman recalled recently that it was so early when she took up her judicial duties that "I had to memorize a book to get my feet under me."

However, her pettiness and sex bias, not kept her from becoming Cleveland's most formidable judge.

Doesn't Ask Favors—A law student, Miss Grossman was one of the first women admitted in 1912 and "I shall act as judge and not a woman, asking no favors and granting none—except a vote." She has kept her word.

Bookmakers and policy boys she has no mercy. "Gambling is against the law," she maintains. "The law is the law and circumstancers do not give cases." Gamblers and their agents, by every dodge possible to avoid the court, where maximum sentences are dealt out freely.

Doesn't Ask Favors—War Memorabilia—Judge James F. Byrnes, her associate, is the best lawyer in the city. "Now maybe some of these fellows will go to work," she said.

The Long For Wife-Beaters—The "long" and "brandy" deal was by Judge Grossman is the wife-beater. Last summer, the 65-year-old woman put a splintered wooden chair on the head of a man who tried to punch her.

Wives' Accusations, Miss Grossman who is reportedly equal to her pettiest enemies on one man, got a law partner, handling a case of a woman defendant.

The Case of a Woman Judge of a Municipal Court in the nation to which she was appointed in 1926, Miss Grossman has struggled to eliminate prostitution and is securing treatment for mentally and physically diseased criminals.

She has impressed on the community the fact that the handling of vice cases is a mental, sociological and psychological problem as well as a legal one.

The Cleveland jurist has no further ambitions. She believes she has a "full sized job" on her hands and says, "I could never be happy in another job," she said. "I am just curious by nature I always want to hear both sides of the question."

Admitting she studied law "just because everyone else in the law office where I was employed as a secretary was doing so and I did not want to be left behind," Miss Grossman has since become more enthusiastic about her career. She has distinguished herself as a capable, understanding and strict law-abiding by her record of unimpeachable honesty and devotion to justice.

Despite her reputation, Mary Grossman minus her horn-rimmed glasses and judge's bench—is a kind, gentle, soft-spoken woman whose only extravagance is the Saturday matinee.

COTTON AND RAYON FREED—WASHINGTON—Large quantities of cotton and rayon finished piece goods will be released for civilian use as a result of military cut-backs, the OPA said. Some of the goods can be used "as is" without refinishing. At the same time, the agency said it planned "tighter pricing" for finished civilian apparel fabrics made of cotton and rayon.

Science Predicts Facial Likeness

The facial likeness that a four-day old baby will have when he grows up can be predicted by X-Ray studies of head growth at the University of Illinois College of Dentistry, it has been related by science writers.

The X-Rays have shown that the main proportions of the skeletal framework of the human head and face present at birth remain virtually unchanged throughout life.

In fact, if growth rates could be predicted, it is possible that after an examination of such X-Rays an artist could draw a fairly reliable sketch of the future citizen's face as it would be when he became a voter.

These studies of the head bones are made under the direction of Dr. Allan Brodie, dean of the College of Dentistry and professor of Orthodontia. The X-Ray techniques which he employs were developed by Dr. B. H. Broadbent, director of the Bolton Study at Western Reserve university, Cleveland.

At Illinois the study covers the last 15 years and the heads of the same children have been X-Rayed periodically during that time. Adult heads also have been studied. The Bolton records started with children of three months of age and recently the Illinois group has finished a series of 135 newborn whose head developments were X-Rayed 20 minutes after birth and every 48 hours thereafter until the infant left the hospital.

If the length of a four-day old baby's nose is 43 per cent of the distance from bridge to nose to tip of chin, that nose length will still be 43 per cent at age 65 or at any other time. The variation is not more than two per cent.

In the same manner, the size of bumps on a head at birth remain in the same proportion throughout the life as do the many contours and positions of all of the features which are fixed by bones. Anthropologists and others have taught that marked head changes take place throughout growth but X-Rays have taught that marked head changes take place throughout growth but X-Rays of various individuals show that this is not the case. In fact, these studies challenge a number of supposed facts of growth printed in medical textbooks.

Five Sisters Find Farm Work Restful

Five sisters at Brookhaven, Mass., operate a 225-acre farm two miles from here and a beauty shop in Brookhaven successfully and unassisted, it was reported by County Agent J. H. Price.

They are the May sisters—Myrie, Kathleen, Alice and Edith. The girls began operation of the farm four years ago when their father could no longer work.

They planned a long-range soil conservation program and utilize all the latest fertilizing and crop rotation methods.

In sight is the gradual building of a herd of 40 head of breeding cows. They have already sold 200,000 feet of timber from marked trees, and two acres are allocated to growing black locust for production of fence posts.

Emphasis also is placed on using farm machinery as much as possible. The girls do all their own work both at the farm and beauty shop.

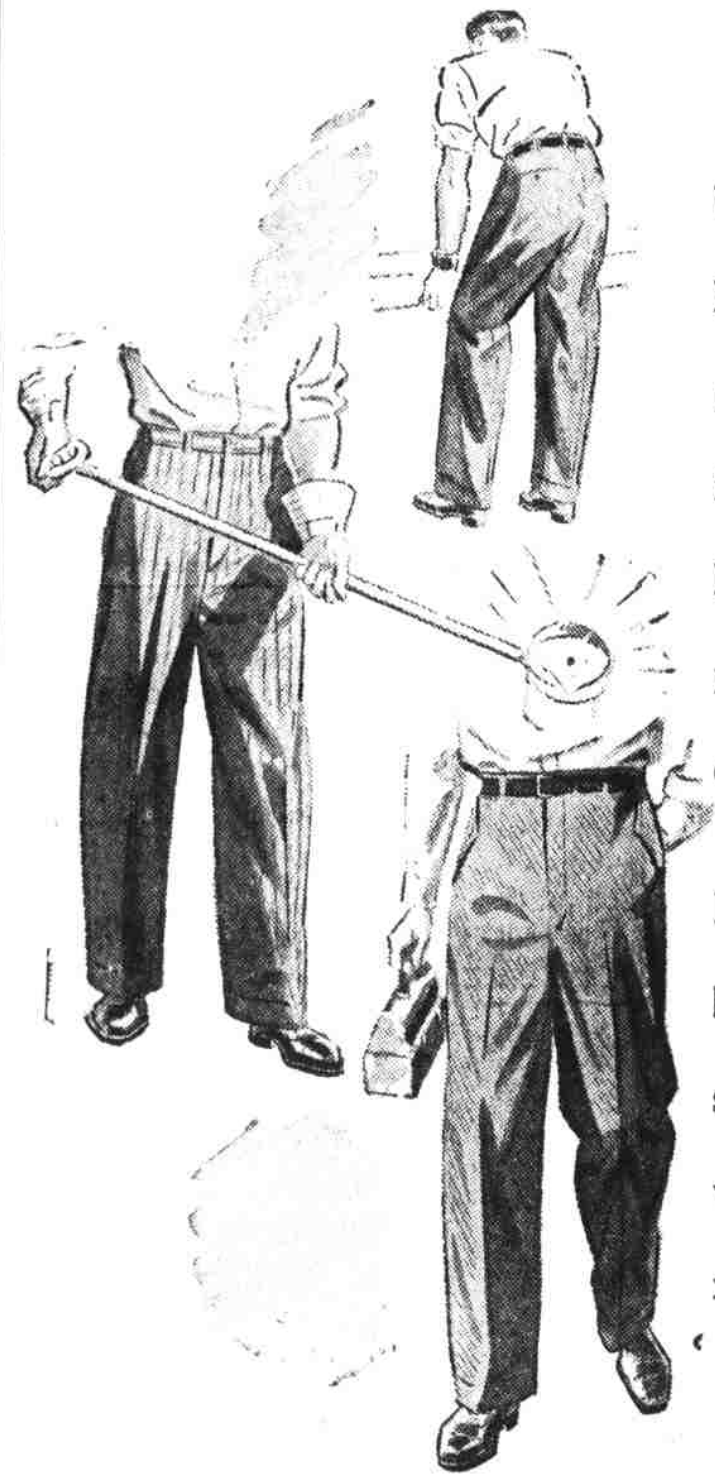

Two work at the farm and three at the beauty shop. On Thursday, when Brookhaven stores close for the afternoon, all five work the farm.

The girls say that farming is hard work, but that they love it. They said they hoped "some day to get out of the beauty business."
