NAVY PLANES COLLIDE IN MID-AIR

TWO NAVY FIGHTER PLANES are caught by the camera immediately after they collided in mid-air over Vella la Vella in the Solomons. The pilot of one of the planes (top) has taken to his chute as both craft dive earthward. The splash in the water at right is where one of the engines hit. At bottom, columns of black smoke billow up from the wreckage of the two planes. One pilot was saved by his chute, while the other perished in the accident. The photos, just released by the Navy, were taken in 1943. They are official U. S. Navy photos. (International)
