

Reynolds Warns Against Prices of DDT On Market

RALEIGH—Dr. Carl V. Reynolds, state health officer, today authorized a statement on DDT, now commercially available, to a discussion of which the October issue of The Health Bulletin, official publication of the State Board of Health, will be devoted in its entirety, for the information of the public.

The Board of Health's release on DDT, prepared from material compiled by the board's disease control experts, follows:

Many claims have been made for, consequently, much interest has been aroused in DDT, the remarkable new insecticide that promises to revolutionize home sanitation, in the elimination of flies, mosquitoes, fleas and other carriers of filth and germs. Its potentialities already have been proved in the field of public health, especially in malaria and typhus control, involving the extermination of mosquitoes and fleas.

Much that has been written about DDT has been more sensational than correct. Some writers have given the product more free and unsolicited advertising than has ever been accorded any other article before it was placed on the market for general use. This created a demand so widespread that it is comparatively easy for unscrupulous or unqualified producers to eep the public by putting out an inferior product—often containing little or no DDT, at fabulous prices.

DDT is now commercially available for general use. Genuine DDT is not expensive. If it were, the purposes for which it is intended would be thwarted.

The State Board of Health has received quotations from several producers of DDT, and has ascertained the price the United States Public Health Service pays for xylene and triton, used to make up a spray. The basic costs of the ingredients used in one gallon of a five per cent solution is approximately thirty-five cents. Reports have been received of purchases being made in the state at prices as high as $4.50 per gallon. The price, purchased in large quantities, of the ingredients used in one gallon of a 35 per cent concentrate is approximately $1.90. Several health officers have received quotations running as high as $10 per gallon. Such prices are considered exorbitant, and beyond all reasonable profit margins.

NEED FOR STRONG BUILDINGS PROVEN IN HURRICANE

The South Florida residents had their first real test of hurricane-resistant built houses in the week-end storm. The fact that there were so few casualties is mostly due to the fact of the city's building code for these hurricane-proof constructed buildings. Flimsy houses fell before the terrific wind like stacked cards.

Haywood Scenes In National Trade Publication

A large picture of Champion Paper and Fibre Company, together with a view of Clingman's Dome are two of the eleven pictures used in a six-page issue of Esso Oilways, a trade publication, just off the press.

Ten thousand reprints of the section have been given the advertising department of Conservation and Development for distribution over the regular company distributing channels.

The reading matter accompanying the illustrations gives a full and complete general description of the state, with more detailed information on its industrial progress.

Bethel Cannery In Pigeon Area

The Bethel community cannery which is serving the Pigeon area of the county and was opened on August 20, is being used by large numbers each Tuesday and Wednesday that it is open. Since that date there have been over 5,000 cans of vegetables and fruits canned.

I. A. McLain, agricultural teacher, and Miss Rozelle Shumlois, home economics teacher, are serving as supervisors with Mrs. Joe Beavrage as manager. Plans are now for the cannery to remain open through October.

The Bethel cannery was sponsored by the school Parent Teacher Association, and financed by federal aid and the county. Prior to its establishment training courses on food production were held in the community in compliance with the government rulings relative to a section receiving federal funds.

Next year plans are to open the cannery at an early date in the summer, it was learned from Mr. McLain.

Cooked cabbage, held over hot water for an hour to keep it warm for serving, loses about 70 to 80 per cent of the vitamin C it had when freshly cooked.

Local Dealer Is Impressed With The New Fords

Henry Davis, manager of Davis-Liner Motor Sales, has just returned from a Ford sales meeting and said he expected to have a new car to display here in two weeks.

"The new car is far beyond my expectations. The major improvements are the front and motor," he said. "Just when the company will start in full production again depends on settlements of strikes in plants that provide the Ford company with parts. It was explained."

Steve Turmyre, USNR, Has Arrived In States

Steve Turmyre, radio technician, first class, USNR, whose wife resides in Waynesville, was among the 1,200 smiling Navy men from the 3rd Fleet who arrived in Puget Sound Navy Yard September 15. Within a matter of hours the men, the majority of them veterans of four years of war, were on their way to separation centers nearest their homes and a discharge for each is now under way in the Navy point system.

Less than a month ago, these men were on warships of Admiral William F. Halsey's fleet off the coast of Japan. The 4,000 mile trip from Tokyo Bay began after the men witnessed the formal surrender ceremonies.

GOVERNOR ARNALL MAKES STATEMENT

"I am still Governor of Georgia and so far as I know, I will continue to be Governor," said Arnall to newsmen, as it had been generally reported that Arnall had been offered the position of U. S. Solicitor General.

Tokyo's most influential daily told the story: "We may lose a battle now, but we shall come back to win victory."

State College Hints

Home economists say that such freshly harvested Irish potatoes as those now on the market offer more vitamin C than those coming on the markets from winter storage. Serve potatoes any way you wish but cook them with care because this saves vitamin C as well as B-vitamins and minerals which this vegetable offers. Do not cook large and small ones together. The small ones will be overcooked.

A triangle and transparent ruler, which high school members of the family used in geometry classes, can take a permanent place in the sewing room. A transparent ruler, 6 inches long with one-eighth inch marks on sides and ends, is a great help in measuring hems, seams, and spaces between buttons. A triangle is useful to square such pattern corners as yokes.

When you do find sheets for sale, don't be stampeded by the mere sight of them and snatch them up regardless. Look for a label giving size, and remember that "torn size" means the size before hemming. Too short sheets like too short blankets are uncomfortable and necessarily subject to more strain than those which are long enough to tuck in firmly and, for the top sheet, turn back far enough to protect the blanket or other bedclothes.

Keep sugar syrup on hand for sweetening fruit drinks and iced tea. It goes farther than plain sugar. To prepare, boil together for three to five minutes equal parts of sugar and water. Keep covered tightly in refrigerator.

Mrs. Hugh Smith, 35-year-old wife of a Caister center farmer, Dunville, Ont., really wanted a girl to make up the family already consisting of two boys and one girl all under five. Instead she received a complete quartette, two boys and two girls.
