

Hyatt And Company One Of Town's Oldest Firms

For the first time since 1918, Hyatt and Company are this week operating without their lumber yard. It was sold last week-end to H. L. Limer, Sr., H. L. Limer, Jr., and C. C. Davenport, who will operate it as the Builders Supply Company.

Hyatt and Company is one of the oldest firms in Waynesville, having been organized in 1901 as Hyatt Campbell Co., with Will Campbell and W. A. Hyatt as owners.

In 1912 E. J. Hyatt purchased Mr. Campbell's interest in the firm, and the name was changed to Hyatt and Company. Five years later, W. T. Shelton became the third partner, and a year later the company bought the lumber yard then owned by Charles E. Ray, Sr.

The firm continued to grow, and in 1923 the large warehouse on Commerce street was built, and a year later the present store adjoining the warehouse was erected.

In 1932 E. J. Hyatt and W. T. Shelton bought the interest of W. A. Hyatt, and became sole owners. Since 1912, E. J. Hyatt has been active manager in charge of the entire firm. With the sale of the lumber yard this past week-end, he plans to devote his time to the warehouse and store, except for a visit to Florida during the winter.

If Providence didn't direct it, why were we saved by so many "breaks" that contradicted experience and normal expectation?

Middle age is that period when you feel rotten if you do anything unusual, and feel rotten if you don't.

Private First Class Mark Dicus, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Dicus, has arrived home after serving in the European theater for eight months. He will report back to the McGuire General Hospital, Richmond, Va., following his furlough here with his parents.

Pfc. Dicus was inducted in the service at Camp Croft and from there was sent to Fort George Meade in January of this year and served in Europe. He was injured in Germany in April and is now a patient in the Richmond hospital.

"Ah! Now I Can Breathe Again!"

Wonderfully quick a little Va-tro-nol up each nostril helps open nasal passages—makes breathing easier—when your head fills up with stuffy transient congestion! Va-tro-nol gives grand relief, too, from sniffly, sneezy distress of head colds. Follow directions in folder.

Serving In London

T/5 WILSON C. MEDFORD, now on duty in London, England, volunteered for the army on January 14, 1943, and was given his basic training at Camp Young, Calif., and was later sent to Camp Maxey, Texas, before leaving for overseas duty on September 4, 1943.

T/5 Medford entered France with the invasion forces of the American First Army, and was a member of the first mechanized cavalry platoon to land on D-Day. He is entitled to wear the European theater ribbon with three stars for major campaigns, having served in Normandy, Northern France, and Western Germany.

During most of this period he was a gunner on an armored car. During the battle of Aachen, he was sent to a hospital in England for a rest from combat duty, where he remained for four months. He was then given an assignment as a driver in London, where he is now stationed with a motor detachment.

Prior to entering the service T/5 Medford, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clark Medford, of Waynesville, was employed by the Pet Dairy Company.

Pfc. and Mrs. Dicus Here With Latter's Parents For Visit

Private First Class and Mrs. James Dicus have arrived from Buffalo, N. Y., and are spending several days here with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Dicus.

Pfc. Dicus entered the service in Sept., 1943 and was inducted at Camp Croft and from there sent to Keesler Field, Miss. Later he took training at the University of Michigan, Merced and Tulare, Calif., before being assigned to Buffalo for special training in the air corps.

When his furlough is completed here he will report to the Greensboro Air Base for his next assignment.

At the time he entered the service he was employed by the Delta Shipyards in New Orleans.

Pvt. Charles A. Rogers Home On Furlough

Pvt. Charles A. Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Rogers, of Waynesville, is spending a 14 day furlough at home prior to being sent overseas as a replacement. He entered the service on Feb. 28 of this year and was sent to Fort Bragg and later to Camp Blanding, Fla., where he took his basic training.

When his furlough is up he will report back to Fort George Meade, Md. At the time he entered the service he was employed by the National Biscuit Company. He has a brother in the service, Pfc. Troy Rogers, who is stationed at Daytona Beach.

William D. Franklin Serving On Yorktown

William D. Franklin, Seaman Second Class, USNR, son of Walter R. Franklin, of Waynesville, is serving aboard the aircraft carrier USS Yorktown which has been assigned to the Japanese occupation forces.

The Yorktown climaxed a war career of 36 major Pacific operations by standing off Japan and sending her planes over the USS Missouri, as the surrender terms were being signed.

Plots based on this ship shot down 457 Jap planes and 76 probables, destroyed 695 and damaged 923 on the ground, and sank or helped to sink many warships, including the battleship Yamato and the heavy cruiser Agano. The ship's anti-aircraft batteries shot down 14 aircraft.
