THE NAME "CARL GOERCH" commnads immediate attention as does his latest book-his third book by the way-"CHARAC-TERS . . . ALWAYS CHARAC-TERS." If ever a person knew his North Carolina characters, that person is Mr. Goerch and he has the happy faculty of knowing how to put his acquaintanceship into words. You can pick up this book and start at any given point, and then go in any direction. Each chapter is a story in itself, complete in interest and entertainment. You'll enjoy every anecdoate whether you are fortunate enough to know the individual about whom is written the little story or not. If you do happen to know him, you'll get a bigger kick than ever out of it.

GETTING DOWN to the serious Farm Questions and Answers QUESTION: How should I ge out controlling cow pox? ANSWER: Dr. C. D. Grinnells veterinarian for the Agricultural Experiment Station at State Col-suggests that you segregate the infected animals from the remainder of the herd and arrange for a separate carctaker for these animals, if possible. In mild cases he suggests cleanliness in milking by dipping the teats after each milking in chlorine solution Tincture of iodine in glycerine of equal parts is also useful. When cow pox is neglected the disease often be comes a predisposing cause of mastitis, an inflammation of the udder, which is the dairyman's No.

QUESTION: What is the best control measure for tobacco fall-

ANSWER: Howard R. Garriss. Extension plant pathologist, says that you are probably referring to the sore shank, or rotten stalk disease, which is found in many tobacco soils, particularly on soils that are not well drained. The diseases also does considerable damage where plants have been injured by wire worms. There is no effective control measure, according to Garriss. He suggests planting the tobacco only on well drained soils. The disease is most severe during wet seasons.

ELSWTH THANE HAS WRIT-TEN a great many novels, such "YANKEE STRANGER," "DAWN'S EARLY LIGHT" and others, but she seems to have put her very best efforts in her latest novel, "EVER AFTER." This is the story of Bracken Murray, special correspondent of the New York Star. After his Viennese wife leaves him, he goes to London to cover the Jubilee Summer. There he meets and falls in love with an English girl. The war with Spain takes him to Cuba as correspondent and from that point we learn of events that were never written up in the history of those days: and Miss Thane's authenticity is unquestioned. A story woven in a pattern of emotion, humor and suspense and carried through the backgrounds of New York, Williamsburg, London, and Cuba and interesting to the last word.

QUESTION: Can you tell me about a new weed killer I have found on the market? ANSWER: This new material will kill 21 different kinds of weeds according to Dr. Emerson Collins. in charge of Extension agronomy

It will kill the leaves on poison ivy but will probably not kill the roots. It is not effective on crab grass, quackgrass, Johnson grass nutgrass, or other weedy grasses and sedges. There is danger in using your garden sprayer in put ting out this material. A small amount of it will endanger useful plants. The material seems to offer great possibilities when adapted to the type of weeds for which it is best suited.
